REED FIGHTS TO HOLD UP MONEY FOR FOOD WORK

Missouri Senator Declares the Hoover Administration Has Spent Cash "Like a Drunken Sailor;" Opposes More Coin

ASKS EXPLANATION OF BIG SUM SOUGHT

Navy Department Conduct in War Vindicated in Report Made by House Committee; Skilled Labor Big Problem

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
LEAD WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Charging that the food administration has wasted money "like a drunken sailor," Senator Reed of Missouri this afternoon launched a new offensive in the Senate against Herbert C. Hoover. He moved to strike out of the billion-dollar urgent deficiency bill an appropriation of $1,750,000 for the expenses of the food and fuel administration.

"I propose to show that never before in the history of this nation has there been such a saturnalia of wastefulness and extravagance as that which has characterized the expenditures of the food administration," said Senator Reed. "A drunken sailor, returned to port after a five-year cruise and filled with bad New England rum, never threw money around like the food administration."

Senator Reed declared that the food administration expenditure would "startle the Senate, if indeed anything can startle the Senate." He demanded an explanation for the $1,750,000 emergency appropriation when the records showed an unexpended balance of $1,257,000 in the food administration's fund. Quoting from the food administration's financial report, he showed that it had $2,272,000 in "encumbrances."

URGENT DEFICIENCY BILLS ARE NOT PAID

"Did any one in the history of the government ever hear of a department being run in that way?" demanded the Missouri senator. "I am curious to know why these bills have not been paid; why they have been held back in a remarkable manner."

The senator pointed out that since last August Congress has appropriated $5,515,000 for the food administration.
In addition, he said, the administration received $340,000 from the president's emergency war fund.

"This food administration in some of its forms and organizations has large sources of income," Senator Reed said. "The country is entitled to know the collection and disposition of these incomes."

He then showed that the food administration grain corporation handled large amounts of money and declared that according to his estimate this corporation would receive $120,000,000 in fees annually.

"I want to know what is done with this money before Congress appropriates any more money," Senator
Reed said.

Reading over a statement of disbursements of the grain corporation,
Reed said:

"Get these figures, Senators. Office furniture and fixtures, $70,307.06 —somebody suggested that must be Louis XIV furniture."

NAVY DEPARTMENT VINDICATED IN REPORT

The Navy Department conduct of the war was vindicated in a report made public today by the House committee that has been investigating the subject.

"All appropriations for the navy have been expended or obligated with judgment, caution and economy, considering that haste was necessary to bring results and abnormal conditions obtained in reference to all problems of production or operations."

REDISTRIBUTION OF SKILLED LABOR PROBLEM

Redistribution of skilled labor will be the greatest problem the United States must face during reconstruction following the war, Representative Meeker of Missouri told the House today. He attacked the mobilization of skilled labor at seaboard for work in munition plants.

"Of course, it is necessary to mobilize them for shipbuilding," he said,
"but it is unnecessary and absurd to send them to the seaboard to work in munition plants and supply factories."

"Everything besides ships that we need to win the war can be made in the Middle West, and must be made there, unless we want to face the danger of shifting our population to the country's edges."

Woman Slayer Wins Wit Battle Cross-Examination Is Completed "Why Make Me Live," She Cries

VISALIA, Cal., March 12.—"I wish I could remember, because I want to die, and if I could state right now that I committed this crime so I could be hanged, I would do it, because I do not want to live. Oh, why do people make me live?"

On the verge of breakdown, Mrs. Orlean E. Howe of Oakland made this statement from the witness stand here today under cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Burke at her trial on a charge of murdering W. H. Brooks, Porterville orange-grower, in a Porterville hotel lobby last November. Mrs. Howe showed the strain of yesterday when she testified consecutively for five hours and a half.

She was pale and exhibited signs of nervousness. In the interval in her appearance in court and the times she took the stand, her hand sought constantly for that of her husband, who was at her side.

At one point Mrs. Howe flatly refused to answer Burke, then she asked for the identity of the woman who had written a "very incriminating" letter to Brooks, according to her testimony yesterday. This letter was shown her by Brooks, she testified, in a San Francisco restaurant during the incident which the defense contends was the source of the present proceedings.

"I will not answer that question," Mrs. Howe cried. "I will not bring another woman into the position in which I am now. I don't want to tell the world I'm sorry, but I cannot.
I said the letter was very incriminating—I am being tried here, not for my life, but for my honor."

After argument in which Judge J.
A. Allen upheld the prosecution's contention that she should answer the question, Attorney McClure said:

"Go ahead, Mrs. Howe—it will not be your fault."

"I will not answer it—not to you or anybody else."

Later Mrs. Howe offered to give evidence to Judge Allen alone, confidentially, but her offer was not accepted.

SHOWS APPLICATION TO NURSING SCHOOL

The prosecution introduced an application for a position at a Los Angeles nursing school, signed by Mrs. Howe, under date of February 9, 1917, in which she said she was "free from domestic responsibilities, of good health, a widow."

No mention was made in this document of her conversation with her husband, which she said she had undergone previous to the signing of the application.

Mrs. Howe said she had filled out the application in that manner on advice of the superintendent of nurses at the hospital.

Previously Burke had taken Mrs.
Howe over all that happened on Monday, November 19, up to the shooting. On cross-examination she repeated her testimony of yesterday regarding her conversation with the hotel clerk, in which she threatened to "kill herself" unless he went and asked Brooks to cease persecuting her.

The conversation with B. J. Sutherland, who sold her the gun, was repeated also. In this Mrs. Howe testified she had said: "You would be sorry, would you not, if I killed somebody with this gun?"

DID NOT KNOW
BROOKS WAS IN TOWN

To Burke's questions concerning whether she had ever had any intention of confronting Brooks with the loaded revolver, Mrs. Howe testified she had not. "I did not know Brooks was in town."

Burke then asked Mrs. Howe whether she had said to a newspaper reporter immediately after the shooting, "I thought the gun was loaded and I was afraid he would run away if he were not forced to stand there and I wanted to force him to get down on his knees and make him retract these statements."

"Yes, Mrs. Howe answered:
"After asking permission to explain, I wanted to tell that story because I wanted to be charged with first degree murder, and I wanted to be hanged. I did not want to be found guilty of second degree murder and go to the penitentiary. I don't want to live.
Why do people make me live?"

Mrs. Howe finished her cross-examination at 10:35 and E. C. Ren-berger of San Francisco, who was just outside the hotel at the time of the shooting, was called by the defense.

MRS. HOWE'S STORY IS TOPIC OF DAY

Mrs. Orlean E. Howe's story of her life is the one topic of conversation today. The fact that a woman could lay bare all of her sufferings and humiliations and heart-searchings during eleven years of busy existence and tell them to a crowded courtroom in order to win a verdict from twelve sober men is not so much to be wondered at, but that Mrs. Howe could thus take the reins into her own hands and thrust and parry and fence with the district attorney who was seeking to break her down, has seemed little short of marvelous.

All of her previous actions had seemed to indicate that she was a hesitant, nervous and most certainly of all hysterical witness. Instead she displayed marvelous control over herself. Despite the fact that she collapsed at noon and spoke often in scarcely audible whispers she gained strength as she thought of her wrongs and when Assistant District Attorney Burke sought to trip her in a maze of cross questions she was equal to every emergency.

It is these things that Visalia is talking of today. Nearly every one in town is wishing for a seat in the courtroom and those who crowded in consider themselves fortunate indeed.

A score of witnesses in cross-today, waiting to be called for the defense and upon them rests responsibility for corroborating the story of persecution and humiliation which Mrs. Howe so silently, yet so dramatically, unfolded.

Children and spectators who could not find seats were excluded from the courtroom. The story is a sordid one of long peregrinations from city to city in America, to Australia and New Zealand, of retreats to the mountains of Canada, of migrations across oceans and to new lands and of a sojourn in Europe to escape the ostracism which she said was heaped upon her by her husband's business associates because she alleged of the columny of William H. Brooks, the man she shot last November.

APPEAL FOR AMERICANS HELP SENT WHIP HUNS ONCE MORE BY RAPID BY FRENCH MANEUVERS

National Army Divisions—Men Called Under the Selective Draft—To Be Sent "Across" Earlier Than First Supposed

WILL MAKE SECOND DRAFT CALL EARLIER

Need of Troops to Make Up Reserve Force on Western Front Is Great in Face of German Menace of Drive

UNITED PRESS
LEAD WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—France has made a new and earnest appeal to the United States for more speed in shipping fighting men across the Atlantic.

It was learned on high authority today that, as a result of the French appeal, decision has been reached to send abroad very soon some of the national army divisions—made up of men called under the selective service draft in the first place.

The war department's initial plan was to keep the bulk of the national guard divisions before calling on the national army to supply troops for the front lines. But an inspection of the army forces, resulting from the new French plan, has convinced army authorities that many national army divisions are in better shape than the national guard.

The first movement of drafted men
"over there" is the result of a demand for more reserves in anticipation of the great west front action expected this year.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS URGENTLY SOUGHT

More American soldiers, men able to enter the trenches with but little more training, are urgently sought.
Neither France nor Great Britain,
it is said, has enough troops to spare to meet a powerful offensive in the west and at the same time guard against all danger of attack from other quarters.

A mobile reserve force is a vital necessity, it has been pointed out, and only the United States can now furnish the necessary forces to assure reserves if French and British troops have to be shifted to the Italian, Saloniki or other fronts that may be threatened.

In face of the urgent demand, greater confidence is expressed in the national army troops. Their training, officers said today, is a splendid record of efficiency for the men who have directed the work. The national guard has been handicapped by the fact that a large percentage of its men had a smattering of military knowledge that covered a great deal of ground, but most of which had to be unlearned before the training in the newer ideas of warfare could begin.

SAY TRAINING HAS BEEN DELAYED

In their own defense, national guard officers have charged that in filling up depleted quotas with drafted men the poorest sort of soldier material was sent from the national army cantonments. These men, they say, greatly delayed the national guard training program. It is admitted that the army would prefer to keep the national army divisions in this country for a somewhat longer period of training. But the German menace is great and it must be met regardless of sacrifices of military policy involved, they say.

It is believed here that the movement of some of the national guard divisions will send the second draft men to the cantonments at a much earlier time than contemplated a month ago. Some camps will be available just as soon as the divisions now occupying them move out.

CUBA IS ASSISTED

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Another ally became a borrower from the United States today when the treasury extended a credit of $15,000, 000 to the Cuban government to assist it in war preparations. At the same time Great Britain was given another credit of $200,000,000. Both loans were made at the new interest rate of 5 per cent.

BILL IS REPORTED

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—The Emerson-Malone bill putting ratification of the federal prohibition amendment up to the voters of New York State in an election this fall was reported out this afternoon by the Senate committee on taxation and retrenchments.

The German batteries came into action, but accomplished nothing toward disrupting the progress of the raid.
The Americans entered the enemy trenches behind one side of a "box" barrage which moved forward in front of them. They found numerous Germans hiding in the dugouts. In the hand-to-hand fighting which followed a number of the enemy were killed and wounded and left in the trenches.

Going far beyond their objective, the raiders penetrated the German line 300 yards. A few fights developed on the way, but the Germans were driven off. The Americans failed to find most of the Germans, who had been withdrawn hurriedly from the front line, although they searched for them.

FRANCE, March 12.—An American raiding party entered the German trenches along the Toul sector at 6 o'clock Monday morning after an artillery bombardment of forty-five minutes and brought back much material and information but captured no prisoners. It was the first raid undertaken by Americans without the aid of the French.

The raid was highly successful, as the enemy withdrew many men from the front line when the bombardment indicated that a raid might follow.
The raiders reported that American gunfire had created destruction in the German positions and had torn gaps in the enemy barbed wire entangle-

"Second Draft" Will Increase U. S. Army to 2,500,000

WASHINGTON, March 12.—When the "second draft" call has been answered, 800,000 strong, the United States army — regulars, national guard troops, enlisted men and reserves—will number approximately 2,500,000 men.

During the war with Spain, the United States army at its maximum strength aggregated 272,000 officers and men.

The call will be issued for 800,000 men to be drawn gradually to camp as need arises and transportation facilities permit.

The date of draft depends on legislation now pending in Congress.

At least 150,000 skilled arti-
sons will be called this summer.
For military service Class 1 will be exhausted before deferred classes are drawn upon.

For industrial and skilled workers other classes besides Class 1 will be tapped if need arises.

Special training schools will be created in many parts of the country to develop those whose early training has given them special technical qualifications.

Men will be drawn in relatively small groups throughout the year in such a way as to create the least possible interference with industry and agriculture.

BULLETIN.
PARIS, March 12.—Thirty-four persons were killed and seventy-nine wounded in the bombing of the suburbs as a result of last night's German raid.

In addition to the bomb victims, sixty-six persons were suffocated through crowding in a panic into a metropolitan railway entrance to take refuge from the raiders. These were of the men, part women and children.

Of the bomb victims, twenty-eight were killed and fifty injured in Paris and five killed and twenty-nine injured in the suburbs.

BERLIN, via London, March 12.— Cambrai has been bombed by long-range British guns, according to today's report from army headquarters. Several shots from the British artillery of the heaviest caliber fell in the town, the statement says.

PARIS, March 12.—Four German airplanes were brought down in last night's raid over Paris. It was officially announced today. No report was made regarding casualties or damage. Nine squadrons took part in the raid.

The fleet of aeroplanes, composed of six German and six British machines, crossed the French frontier last night in an effort to attack Paris.
Some of them were driven off by French scouts and high-angle fire before they could reach the city, but a few got through and dropped bombs on Paris proper and the suburbs.

A few buildings were demolished and fires were started.

BAKER THERE A WITNESS TO ATTACK.

The raid and the flights in the air between French and German machines afforded a thrilling scene for the American secretary of war, Newton D. Baker, who had only arrived yesterday morning and was spending his first night in the French capital. The roar of falling bombs, the flashing of the guns, the bursting of shrapnel shells high in the air and the glimpses of the fleet machines through the glare from numerous searchlights that continuously swept the sky, gave Baker his first picture of the war at close range.

General Pershing, the American commander-in-chief, and General Tasker H. Bliss, of American representative on the allied council of war at Versailles, had come to meet Baker and to escort him to the American front, and it is understood they too were in the city during the raid.

Next National Quota Will Be Made When Change Is Made in Method of Computation; 95,000 to Prepare at Once

LEAD WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Ninety-five thousand more men were ordered today by the war department to prepare for induction into training camps.

The movement will start March 29
and continue five days.

This is the last increment of the first draft.

The movement will include the mobilization of 28,000 Southern negroes in northern camps.

Because of the peculiar camp situation, some districts that have completed their quotas will be asked to turnish more men and will be given credit under the second draft.

Several thousand of those today ordered mobilized will be used to fill up the ranks made vacant by deaths and other withdrawals. Others will be for industrial calls, of which fifty-six have already been made. Provost Marshal-General Crowder stated.

The first contingent of industrial workers drafted recently went to France, Crowder said.

Following are State allotments:

Local draft boards are rushing through the work of physical examinations of registered men, in anticipation of class demands by the war department upon the contingents within their jurisdiction. This is pursuant to no request that troops be sent to Si-was proceeding.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE EXPECTED TO HELP

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A prompt stiffening of Russian resistance to the German hordes that are overrunning that stricken nation is hoped for today as the consequence of President Wilson's letter of cheer and encouragement to the Russian congress of soviets. The message, timed to reach these representatives of the Russian people at the moment they begin deliberation on the question of accepting or rejecting the German terms of peace, is expected to have a very weighty influence. Administration officials do not conceal their confidence that it may be the consideration that will swing the Russians against accepting the shameful terms dictated by Berlin.

It was a matter of great satisfaction to administration officials today that the Russian congress was scheduled to meet today in Moscow.

HONOR GUARD FOR TRIPLE LAUNCHING

One thousand United States soldiers and sailors will stand guard Thursday when the three new ships completed at the Moore shipyards slide into the estuary at the triple launching, the most remarkable event in the history of Oakland's shipbuilding activities.

Army officers, government officials and a few invited guests will watch the big ships slide to the water. The affair cannot be made a public launching because of the government's ban on visitors to shipyards where government work is being done.

Following the launching of the soldiers and sailors, preceded by the Marine band, will parade to the Hotel Oakland as an escort to the launching party, which will be entertained at luncheon by President R. S. Moore of the company.

Thursday night will mark the climax of a general holiday for the 5400 men who worked on the three ships. A program, to be followed by a dance, will be the order of the evening. The men will have a holiday immediately after the launching.

Mayor John L. Davis and Joseph D. Barry will speak. Anabel Jones, the "shipyard nightingale," will sing, and acts will be given through the courtesy of the Oakland Orpheum and Pantages. Several other special events are planned.

The Oakland, the 3900-ton Cunarder requisitioned by the government, will be the second boat of the three to be sent to the water.

At noon the Scherer block, a three-story building in the heart of the city, had been gutted with a loss estimated at $30,000.

The Elks Club occupied quarters in the building.

Calls for fire aid have been sent to nearby towns.

Faculty water provision is responsible for the flames gaining such rapid headway.

800,000 Basis For Next Call Draft To Be Made in Groups

well as men in Class 1, for the purpose of utilizing special technical qualifications or sending them to schools to acquire such qualifications.

The provost marshal-general makes the definite statement, however, that there would be no sudden withdrawal of great numbers of men from industry and agriculture during the coming summer, but that they will be drawn in relatively small groups spread throughout the year. To give the exact numbers, he says, would be to give the enemy military information.

EXPECTED BEFORE APRIL

While General Crowder sets no time in his statement, it has been stated previously that supplies and equipment for the men of the second draft would become available in April, and action on the desired legislation is expected before that time. The first call is expected soon afterward.

"The next national quota will be announced and apportioned among the several States as soon as pending legislation authorizing a change in the basis of computation is enacted in Congress," says the provost marshal-general's statement. "The number that will be assumed as a basis for computation will be 800,000, which is well within the authorization of Clause 4 of Section 1 of the selective service act of a second increment of 500,000 men, increased by the recruit training units authorized by Clause 5 of said Section 1 and by the special and technical troops authorized by Section 2 of said act. It cannot now be announced what the total number to be called to the colors each month will be, but it may be stated that no more men will be called than can be properly accommodated and promptly assimilated."

"There are difficulties confronting the nation in the supply of labor apportioned to agriculture. Class 1, from which new levies are to be withdrawn, will contain many more men than are at present required for the army. It would be a most unscientific and fatuous step if the men in Class 1 were called indiscriminately without regard to the labor situation in agriculture. Therefore, the local boards will be directed to fill their quotas in the order of liability of men in Class 1 as determined by the national drawing, except that, when it is shown that a registrant is completely and assiduously engaged in the planting, cultivation or reaping of a crop, his call to the colors shall be deferred to the foot of the quota of his board as long as he continues to be so engaged."

WHEN REGISTRANT WILL BE CALLED

"Whenever any registrant, whose call to the colors has been deferred by reason of his engagement in agriculture, is shown to have been idle on the farm on which he is engaged or to have trifled with the deferment that has been accorded him, the boards will forthwith induct him into military service, if his order number has been reached in the meantime. The effect of this expedient is to grant furloughs from service prior to actual call to the colors to the men so greatly needed in the production of this year's crop."

"This is not, however, the only expedient that is to be adopted to conserve the supply of labor apportioned to agriculture and to mobilize all means for increasing the harvest for the agricultural season of 1918."

There is now pending before Congress a bill to authorize the secretary of war to grant furloughs, with or without pay, to men in the army to enable them to engage in industrial and agricultural pursuits. These furloughs will be granted after consideration of the circumstances of the individual case in which they arise and when the military situation is such that they can be granted without too great disruption and disorganization of the army or of any particular organization of the army.

NEW REGULATION TO PROTECT AGRICULTURE

To further means to protect agriculture a new regulation has been promulgated authorizing agricultural students in their senior year in land grant colleges to enlist in the United States Reserve Corps of the quartermaster's department, provided their class standing is such as to place them in the upper third of their class. By this means it will be possible to defer the draft call of such young men in order to enable them to perfect themselves as agriculturalists and thereafter to protect them in such services as it may appear that they should perform in the best interests of the nation.

"The whole industrial and agricultural situation is being subjected to a very comprehensive study in order to discover any means that may be taken to protect and augment the labor supply apportioned to industry and agriculture without precluding the prompt and orderly progress of our military plans. It is confidently believed that great progress can be made along this line and that more effective measures than any yet devised can be put into operation to attain the desired end."

WAY OF SECURING SKILLED WORKERS NEEDED.

"It must be emphasized that this is a war of mechanics. The needs of the several armed services for agricultural and mechanical skills are greater than in any former war. Yet this need for specially skilled men finds the nation under a necessity for increasing the production in almost every line of industry. Withdrawals of men from industry must be made and these withdrawals must take men who, might otherwise be deferred on account of their lack of qualifications and skill. The necessary number of skilled men will be obtained in one of three ways:

"First, men already in the military service who have such special skill will be taken from the ranks and assigned to the staff organizations and departments where their skill is needed.

Second, men classified by the national boards, when their grammar have been placed in a deferred classification, will be withdrawn with great care and particularly from the industries of the nation for special service in staff corps and departments.

"Third, young men of draft age with certain educational qualifications will be inducted into the service and sent to universities, colleges and technical and secondary schools to be instructed in the arts and crafts until they have acquired such proficiency as will justify their assignment to the special units that are being organized in considerable numbers.

SPECIAL TRAINING FOR SELECTED MEN.

In accordance with this plan the provost marshal general has already called upon states for some ten thousand skilled artisans and will shortly again call on the states for 10,000 young men, graduates of grammar schools, who will be sent before the 1st of April to various technical and other schools throughout the United States for a two months' course of training. Regularly thereafter an increasing stream of selected men will be sent through educational and other training institutions for this purpose.

"To sum up, it may be said that there will be no sudden withdrawal of great numbers of men from the ranks of industry and agriculture during the coming summer, but that men will be drawn in relatively small groups throughout the year in such a way as to create the least possible interference with industry and agriculture. Men in the deferred classes as well as men in class No. 1 will be selected in small numbers, either on account of their special technical qualifications or for the purpose of sending them to schools where they will be given an opportunity to acquire such qualifications.

The war department is prepared to supply clothing and other equipment immediately for all the men to be called out. Acting Quartermaster General Goehale is now pressing vigorously the deliveries of winter clothing to build up the reserves necessary for next winter. The original issue to men mobilized in April would be winter clothing, but shortly thereafter they will be transferred into summer khaki. Ample stores of summer outfits for the entire army are on hand. Huge stocks are available.

SACRAMENTO, March 12.—Instructions concerning the method of calling California's apportionment of 1745 men, as its share of the movement of 35,000 drafted men set to begin March 29, had not been received early today by Adjutant General J. J. Borree.

General Borree construed the order from Washington as a special call and said the number of men sent from California in this movement would be deducted from the state's final quota of the second draft when the figure was determined finally. California's first draft quota has been completed.

WILL KNOW IDENTITY OF HERO DEAD

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The American people very probably will be informed of the identity of their hero dead. At the cabinet meeting this afternoon President Wilson took up with his advisers the question of supplying when casualty lists are published the home addresses of soldiers killed or wounded in France, and it is said the decision will be to order addresses made known when the names are given out.

Officials here, both civilian and military, have not been convinced that publication of the addresses really aids the enemy as has been claimed. While there is the strongest desire to comply with all requests of our allies, it is felt, privately, that the French government was not fully informed of circumstances when it asked that the publication of addresses with the names be discontinued.

NO REAL REASON SUPPRESS ADDRESSES

It is pointed out that there is a real reason for suppression of the addresses in other countries that does not exist in the United States. And it is further argued that the present lists containing merely names do not mean anything to the country at large, while if the dead and wounded were identified as to home and family, the actuality of war would more forcibly be brought home to all.

An additional casualty list issued by the War Department contains the names of Lieutenant John H. David and twenty-seven men killed in action. Lieutenants Ralph M. Davenport and Stephen C. Markoe and five men slightly wounded and one private severely wounded.

General Pershing's first casualty report shows four privates killed in action, twenty-seven wounded, twenty-one slightly wounded, four died of wounds, eight from disease and two from other causes.

DIED OF WOUNDS—Privates Lawrence Wenell, Henry J. Sweeney, Jim F. Edgar, Hugh I. Hunt.

Mrs. Howe Faces New Grilling Questions Hurt Fair Defendant

you horsewhipped and run out of town."

The quarrel is alleged to have started by Mrs. Howe asking Mrs. Kendell if she had had a good time while she (Mrs. Howe) was out horseback riding, the imputation being that Mrs. Kendell and Steinberg, the clerk, had been together during that interval.

Mrs. Howe, quick to note the sarcasm of a previous remark, had replied in that wise, whereupon Mrs. Kendell took offense.

Mrs. Howe on the stand said that she meant no offense, but just to parry the question. Mrs. Howe then went to her room upstairs, where Mrs. Kendell joined her. The two quarreled again, whereupon Mrs. Howe said: "I will leave your hotel, but I will not leave the town, for I have done no wrong and if I were run out of town then people surely would believe the things Brooks has always said."

Later Mrs. Howe attempted to talk to Mrs. Kendell's husband, who had ducked shooting when the quarrel took place, but he said, "I don't want to talk to you; I'm done with you."

"Did you say to Mrs. Brooks," queried James Burke of the prosecution, "these words: 'I know I wronged you, Anne, but I've been to the priest and confessed and been forgiven and hope you will forgive me, too?'"

Mrs. Howe's eyes widened in genuine surprise and she denied the charge indignantly. Looking at Mrs. Brooks, who sat directly in front of her, she said:

"I've never tried to hurt Mrs. Brooks; I do not understand why she tries to hurt me; I wish I could knock her down but I never wanted her husband; I never wanted him."

ANOTHER MAN IS MENTIONED

In the cross-examination came a story of a Porterville man named J. A. Ulmer, with whom it was hinted Mrs. Howe was wont to spend her evenings in the lobby of the hotel and on automobile drives. It was also hinted that they went together on jaunts to San Francisco.

"I was certainly," she replied, "very interested together in the strike, which we thought to profit from, and when he went to San Francisco he stayed at the St. Francis hotel. I have always stayed there. Why should I have changed when Ulmer went there? It was a respectable hotel."

Asked to explain her statement, alleged to have been made in the presence of Mrs. Kendell that she would divorce her husband but for the fact that her allowance of $400 monthly would stop, Mrs. Howe replied:

"I was just joking. I was what I had said in the same spirit that I was going to divorce my husband marry Steinberg. I had to do something to amuse myself and in the evenings sat around the lobby of the hotel joking. None of the ladies of Porterville ever called on me and I had to have some kind of amusement." She denied saying after the quarrel with Mrs. Kendell to Steinberg, the clerk, "how can I trust my life with you if you won't assist me now?" She denied saying to Mrs. Kendell at any time: "My husband would divorce me any time I wished it, but I do not wish to lose my allowance."

She denied telling Mrs. Kendell that she was a "cheap whore" and advised her that she could never live with him again without contract.

ing the disease. She looked squarely at her husband sitting in the front row of seats, and said: "I told her that I would be glad to live with Mr. Howe anywhere, sick or well. I love him and I'd love to live with him again; I want to live with him again."

Mrs. Howe's cross-examination was the occasion for frequent arguments between opposing counsel.

"I object to the torture this defendant is being subjected to," declared Attorney Everts of defense counsel during the examination.

"I am not torturing her," retorted Assistant Attorney General Burke. "I'm trying to avoid that."

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—With the resumption of the Hindu Ghadr trial before Federal Judge Van Fleet this morning, a committee of alienists headed by Dr. J. D. Ball of Oakland, reported that Jodh Singh was curably insane and he was ordered committed to the State insane asylum at Talmadge for treatment.

Jodh Singh was made the subject of a request for presidential investigation at the behest of the Pacific Hindustani Association, which alleged he was subject to cruel and inhuman treatment while an inmate of the Alameda county jail where he was sent following his refusal to testify for the government. The matter is now being handled by Attorney General Gregory at the request of President Wilson.

Morris S. Von Goldzheim, locally prominent insurance broker, associated with the West Coast Life Insurance Company, is charged by the government with being one of Frank Lloyd's agents in the plot to disrupt British India with a revolution, took the stand in his own defense today. He testified that he knew Har Dayal, head of the British India committee, and had paved the way for his reception in Berlin with a letter to the wife of a Leipzig professor in which he characterized the Hindu chieftain as a "Christ-like man" and idealist who will hurt no one, and solicited her help.

Bernard Manning, formerly deputy sheriff of San Diego, who has been accused by the government of being Bernardo Bowen, said to be active in the purchase of arms and ammunition, later shipped on the Maverick and Anna Larsen in the spring of 1915, will not take the stand in his own defense, according to his attorney, A. P. Black, this morning.

This was decided upon following the information furnished to United States Attorney John W. Preston Friday by Attorney W. A. Wetherston, 289 Edgewood avenue, who claims that Bowen actually exists and that the charge against Manning was made because of the resemblance between the two men. According to Wetherston, Bowen is now in Sinaloa, Mexico, and government operatives will endeavor to find him and obtain his appearance in the present trial.

Should it later develop that Bowen exists and is not Manning, the government's case will be greatly weakened, especially against the Anglo-Saxon defendants involved in the alleged conspiracy, and it was learned today that an international detective agency had been retained by funds pooled by these defendants to find Bowen.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr.
Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there is no need of having a yellow complexion, pimples, or under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by tending the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary multifunctional coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multifunctional coconut oil at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

Women Sufferers May Need Swamp Root

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention The Oakland Daily Tribune.—Advertisement.

"My stomach and intestines were always full of gas, and I often had severe colic attacks. The pain and soreness caused me to think I needed a new set of pipes. Since taking May's Wonderful Remedy all this has disappeared and my only trouble now is to make enough dough to buy all the food I'd like to eat." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. A Single Application Banishes Every Hair

(The Modern Beauty)
Here is how any woman can easily and quickly remove objectionable hair growth without possible injury to the skin: Make a paste with some powdered de-latone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a painless, inexpensive method and, excepting where the growth is unusually thick, a single application is enough. You should, however, be careful to get genuine de-latone.—Advertisement.

A fantastic bit of emotionalism is the war poem of Marc Leclerc, Polu poet, who tells of his visit to Heaven, after being killed on the battlefield, and the reception accorded him there. The work has just been translated by A. W. Ryder, assistant professor of Sanscrit in the University of California, and presents an odd mosaic of humor and religious thought.

After being killed by a shell the soldier reached the portals of the Heavenly gates, according to the poem, and was admitted to the "waiting room." He describes his sensations:

The poor boy felt an awful fool,
Dumb in the middle of the vestibule;
But an angel said, before he'd been Waiting forever, "Walk right in!"

Once inside he declares he found a flock of soldier saints, St. George and Hubert and Michael, Leonard and Marcel, Charles the Great, Sulcus, Martin, "Saint" Barbara handling her little gun, Maurice, and Joan of Arc, with her splendid banner, and the poor Polu was much afraid.

But now 'twas much too late to run;
He had to stay and see the fun.

Then:
"We wish to have a report from you,"
Said our dear God to the poor Polu.

And the poor Polu tells his simple story of plowing and sowing and reaping, of his horse and his cow and his pig; and makes his confession, while the saints comment and condone.

He tells of helping his brother up the hills when their loads were heavy and he was none too fresh himself, and Saint Simon says: "Like us, dear Lord, at Golgotha!" But still "God said not a word," until the poor Polu saw in the Virgin Mother's mantle blue, the red robe of the Savior, and the white beard of the Father the colors of his country, France.

"Oh, well!"
He cried, "There are my colors—
The colors of my country, France.
For when I die, these colors dance Upon my country's flag. And in My love for her I lost my skin.
For life away,
For her, Eternal God, today
See me before you, kneel and pray."

At that God smiled and Heaven opened to the poor Polu, who sang, "Glory to God in the highest Heaven." And the angels (mostly French soldier angels in blue coats) responded,

"And peace be on the earth below,
To all good men who wish it so."

TESTAMENT SAFER THAN HIS ARMOR.

Harry N. Holmes, Y. M. C. A. secretary, who has been speaking in this city on the work he has done in France, tells the story of a soldier he met in a hospital who places implicit belief in his Bible. "He wouldn't go into action without it," said Holmes in narrating the incident. "He was in action when a bullet from a Hun sniper's rifle drilled through his steel protector, perforated his metal cigarette case and imbedded itself in his Bible, which every soldier is given. Curiosity impelled him to open the book to see where the bullet had

As the college-bred youth who, infatuated with an American girl, betrays his mother's people, Sessue Hayakawa is to be seen in an exciting story of the South Sea Islands at the Kinema for the last times today. The views of the Hawaiian volcano, which are so carefully woven into the story, have excited almost as much comment as the film showing General Pershing's first tour of inspection of the French fighting machinery.

The American general was accompanied by Marshal Joffre on his trip through the French lines and the official cameraman did not fail to obtain many points which have heretofore remained unknown to the American public.

ADDS TWO STARS

The Oakland Orpheum today added two new stars to its big service flag. Sebastian Rinehart, assistant treasurer, left the theater's box office force, having been called by the Naval Reserve, in which he enlisted some time ago, and Al Valda, doorman at the Orpheum, left for the Army Motor Corps, in which he enlisted. George Allen, assistant manager, is to leave shortly, also having enlisted in the Naval Reserve. This makes a large list from the Oakland Orpheum. Peter McDermott, head usher, and several other ushers have been called to service in the army or navy during the past two months, and several of the stage crew are also serving.

stopped. He found it was at the thirty-second verse of Paul's Epistles to the Hebrews. The verse read:

"And what shall I say? For the time will fail me if I tell of Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah, David and Samuel, and the prophets who, through faith, subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the power of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, from weakness were made strong, waxed mighty in war and turned to fight the armies of the aliens." "He thinks that testament is safer than a suit of armor," Holmes concluded.

CORNELL FINDS MAN
TRULY WILSONESQUE.

Harry E. Cornell, manager of the Orpheum, met "Pat" Cadigan, clubman and bond expert on the street. "Pat was kicking about the war, the high cost of living, the income tax, aliens, laundries, transportation, weather and several other things. Otherwise he was feeling optimistic."

"There's too many politicians at Washington," he said. "If I was in Wilson's place—"

Cornell grabbed him by the shoulder.

"Come on," he said, "you can get in there too."

"Get in where?" asked Pat.

"The Athenium Club!"

"What the devil are you talking about?" asked Pat. "Why should I join the Athenium Club?"

"Because," said Cornell, "we have forty men up there who could beat Secretary of War Baker, sixty-one who know more about Secretary Daniels' job than he does himself and fifty-six who want to run the department of state. But we are short on Wilson. There are only nine who think they would make better presidents than Woodrow, and you would make the tenth. They are giving a free membership for the tenth man, because they don't want Wilson to feel slighted."

OAKLAND BOY AWARDED TWO WAR CROSSES

Flight Lieutenant Guy Duncan Smith, son of W. S. Smith of 1969 Thirty-fifth avenue, who has gained wide renown for his exploits as a member of the Royal Naval Flying Corps of Great Britain, has been awarded the Croix de Guerre by the French government for bravery in Palestine. He was some time ago honored by the receipt of the Distinguished Service Cross from the British government for his part in the invasion of Palestine.

Along with his letter telling of his receiving the Croix de Guerre, Lieutenant Smith sent his father a pair of cuff links made from coins given him by the sultan of the Madagascan islands, where he and his observer landed when they lost their way in a flight in the Holy Land, and where he was treated as a god by the startled natives.

Lieutenant Smith also sent bracelets made from the hair of giraffes killed in the Sudan to his sisters.

As Lieutenant Smith will have to go to England to receive the Distinguished Service Cross in person from King George, he is at present wearing only the ribbon. He writes: "Everybody seems to have the idea that I am going to England to get the D. S. C. I never said I was going. What do I want to go to England for? When I get my leave I am coming home."

No mention is made in the letter why Lieutenant Smith was awarded the Croix de Guerre other than that it was for "pour la belle audace." His parents believe that the honor was given him for his bravery in destroying the Chikil Dere bridge, near Adana, in Asia Minor, last fall.

He and his companion aviators flew out over the bridge at height 250 feet and dropped bombs upon it while under fire from Turkish soldiers.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If Tongue Coated, Breath Feverish and Stomach Sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, eat, sleep or eat naturally, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a healthy, happy child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the great California Fig Syrup Company.—Advertisement

SELF DEFENSE

DEFEAT BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE WITH ANURIC.

Many people in this section have suffered from rheumatism and kidney trouble and have found Anuric to be the most successful remedy to overcome these painful and dangerous ailments.

The lucky people are those who have suffered, but who are now well because they heeded Nature's warning signal in time to correct their trouble with that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's called Anuric. You should promptly heed these warnings, some of which are dizzy spells, backache, irregularity of the urine or the painful twinges of rheumatism, sciatica or lumbago. To delay may make possible the dangerous forms of kidney disease, such as Bright's disease, diabetes or stone in the bladder.

To overcome these distressing conditions you should take plenty of exercise in the open air, avoid a heavy meat diet, drink freely of water and at each meal take Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets (double strength). You will, in a short time, find that you are one of the firm indorsees of Anuric, as are many of your neighbors.

Send Dr. W. M. Pierce, of the Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cents for trial package.

PORTLAND, OREGON.—"Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets gave me great relief after eight years of suffering with kidney trouble and dropsy of limbs and feet. Anuric is certainly good."—Mrs. J. C. WELLS, 417 Stephens Street.

Dr. Pierce's Tablets are the original Little Liver Pills. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic. Sold by druggists for nearly 50 years.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—"I have for years used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for stomach and bowel trouble. I keep them in the house all the time. I am certain they save many doctor bills when taken promptly for constipation."—Mrs. L. ANDERSON, 22 Johnson Avenue.

Sees Faith in Tribune Move County Press Notes Growth

From Livermore Herald.

With the next week or ten days the Oakland TRIBUNE will be in new quarters in its own building at Thirtieth and Franklin streets, at present and probably for generations to come the business center of Oakland. This move means more than the usual reader can understand or appreciate unless he has a fairly intimate knowledge of the newspaper business. In a general way it means that the TRIBUNE has unbounded confidence in the future of Oakland and its adjacent country or it would not have the courage to undertake such a gigantic enterprise as the purchase of a six-story modern building, which, with the mechanical equipment, branch offices, subscription agencies and the other accessories which go to make up the organization of a modern daily, represent an investment of very close to a million dollars. To make this a profitable venture requires a business of such scope that it must be taken out of the class of small city papers and ranked with metropolitan papers of the same class as the San Francisco Chronicle and Examiner, the Los Angeles Times and the Portland Oregonian.

The building which will house the TRIBUNE consists of six stories and a basement. It is of concrete class A construction, absolutely fire-proof.

The first floor is finished in marble and hardwood, with terra cotta bas-relief panels. This floor and the mezzanine floor will be occupied by the advertising subscription departments with the offices of the executive staff.

The third floor will be devoted entirely to the composing room and stereotyping departments which will be the most complete and up-to-date of any paper in the West. Provision has been made for fifteen composing machines, but only thirteen being now in use in the office.

The fourth floor will be devoted to the news room, publisher's offices and library.

with the latest equipment and the stock rooms will take up the entire fifth floor.

On the sixth floor will be located the job printing department of the paper, already one of the best equipped in the West, but which will be considerably expanded.

On the roof have been erected two separate structures. One provides for a lunch and rest room for the women employees and a lunch room for the men employees. The other is an assembly room, which will be used for general assembly purposes and especially for the carriers, a motion picture equipment having been installed for their entertainment at their weekly gatherings on Saturday forenoons.

In a steel tower will be placed the mechanism of an immense four-foot electric clock and illuminated sign. Last, but probably the most important, in the basement. In it will be installed two of the latest type Hoe six-line presses, each with a capacity of 72,000 twelve-page papers an hour. The mailing and carrier departments are also located in the basement. The electric apparatus and automatic control system also have a place in the basement. A fast elevator connects all the floors.

PATRIOTIC TOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Five per cent of the male population of Meadows Valley, a town eight miles north of Quincy in Plumas county, have volunteered for service in the United States Army. And each and every one of the five volunteers had been born and raised in Meadows Valley.

Despite the isolated location of their home, they had learned much of the opportunities offered by the Aviation Section, and upon making their choice at army recruiting headquarters selected the branch for their military career.

The men, who were all under the draft age, are Leonard E. Challen, 20; Milton Yager, 20; Chester Hard, 18; Herbert Hard, 20; and Dewey F. McElroy, born in 1895.

Down in Santa Cruz the mothers' clubs and parent-teacher associations have solved a bit of the problem, still found fast to the ideals for which their organization was founded and yet devoting themselves also to the newer work which war has demanded without loss to the one or the other.

The meetings have been changed from the afternoon to the evening. Of course, this permits the mothers' clubs to be transformed into such meetings as will welcome the fathers, too, but fathers were not the real reason for the change, much as they would like to be the fruit of the season's approach. It will mean picking, drying, canning. The women in the clubs are willing to do their part to war the conservation of food, so giving of their labor it need be, they have put their hands to the work.

The honor ration will be demonstrated on Thursday before Berkeley Center, California Civic League, Mrs. George M. Stratton addressing the women on the subject of food conservation and economy and a companion theme, Edward H. Benjamin, representing the United States Food Administration, will speak on "Conservation and Saving in Public Dining Service."

Community singing will be introduced at the Thursday meeting, with Mrs. Orrin Kip McMurray leading the choruses.

The second program of the month will be devoted to the purposes and work of the National League for Women's Suffrage, which will be presented by the State Council of California with the State president, Mrs. Albert B. Carter, Mrs. A. M. DeTo and Miss Marguerite Ogden the speakers.

Berkeley center meets in Unity Hall on the second and fourth Thursdays. Mrs. H. R. Hatfield is president.

If you sew neatly and with intelligence the local branch of the National League for Women's Suffrage has made of you. There is about to be manufactured dozens of attractive arm bags for patriotic purposes, the league of willing sponsors being eager to gather in the silver which will be used in developing war service. The bags may be used for knitting, for shopping or carfare. They will mark the possessor at least a patriotic citizen. The dull brown of the service bag is brightened with the red, white and blue shield and spread eagle. Every woman who wants one. So it will take scores of needlewomen to manufacture them. Recruits may volunteer at Room 420, Central Bank building.

Miss Christie Telford has volunteered as one of the women to give a valuable service to the local branch of the league, equipping herself to direct the "Findex," the intricate but efficient catalogue system which has been adopted by the league. It is training for this special branch of work and will have charge of the office records.

It has remained for women to find the soldier's shirt which is vermin proof. The "cooties" are sensitive to odor and object seriously to that peculiar pungency which is found in the pongee silk which comes from the Philippines and Shanghai. The daughters of the Orient, as the chapter of the American Revolution which are located in the Philippines and Shanghai are called are buying themselves with the manufacture of the pongee silk shirts for shipment to the American soldiers in France. Great quantities of the necessary garments are being shipped every week, the women devoting every spare moment to the making of the shirts which have such peculiar virtue in their silken folds.

From Los Angeles comes word of the beginning of a tremendous effort to absorb the foreign element in the home. The firm equipping the educational department and the club women supplying the teacher.

Those who have been dealing with aliens have found that in their ignorance of American customs, the utmost tact must be used also suspicion is

HELL-DIVER IS FARMER'S GIFT

Want to eat "Hell-Diver"? It might conserve the poultry supply. A "Hell-Diver" a waterfowl common in the California valleys, formed the queerest consignment ever received by an Oakland commission house today. It arrived, alive and crated, at the Hunt-Hatch produce depot.

A farmer, consigning produce, found the bird, a very young one, wounded on the road, and sent it along with his produce for a joke. The little bird fights savagely when approached, but experts say it will later become tame. Ulrich Hunt, manager of the depot, proposes to tame it as a mascot.

CHOOSE Y.M.C.A. MEN FOR FRANCE

CAMP KEARNY, San Diego, March 12.—Two more of Camp Kearny's quota of ten Y. M. C. A. workers to go to France have been selected. It was announced today and, with the five previously selected, have started for their new stations.

The new men are the Rev. A. O. Amundson of Sebastopol, Cal., and the Rev. W. O. Wark of Pomona, Cal. "Exceptionally satisfactory" was the way Keith Spaulding, director of military relief at Red Cross headquarters, described headquarters at Camp Kearny. Construction of the new convalescent home at the base hospital here, Spaulding said, would be pushed.

This is the first building in this country, Spaulding said, and its construction is waiting only upon completion of the necessary plans. It will afford a home for patients not sick enough to remain in wards, yet who should not leave the hospital for a time and also will provide accommodations for a limited number of patients' relatives who may be wanted at the hospital while their sons are in a critical condition.

Members of the 49th divisions are encouraged to patronize merchants who sell thrift stamps in an order issued by General Strong, commanding the camp.

WILL PROBE DISLOYALTY INTIMATIONS

Intimations contained in the resolutions of the Methodist Ministers' Association of the State, sent to Governor William D. Stephens that Henry J. Wiedemann, Chicago, Illinois, was alleged to have attacked and beaten former State Senator Edwin E. Grant, executive head of the State Law and Enforcement League for the latter's crusade against the liquor interests, was instrumental in the agitation to induce men to leave the Navy Yard, is to be made the subject for federal investigation, it was learned today.

The association in its resolution asks for summary action in regard to this phase of the matter, which has arisen as a result of the exposure of Wiedemann's alleged activities during the past month in combating the dry zone agitation, which has been finally concluded in a formal order from Secretary Daniels. In addition, the Congregational Ministers' Club has called upon Governor Stephens to dismiss Wiedemann from his position as State Highway commissioner.

The resolution sent to the federal authorities follows: "Resolved, That we request the federal authorities to make a thorough investigation of conditions in Vallejo, and of the conduct of Henry J. Wiedemann, and that if found that agitation to induce men to leave the navy yard at Mare Island can be traced to Henry J. Wiedemann, and that Wiedemann's brewing interests were behind the whole affair, Grant says:

"Henry J. Wiedemann's published interview is the usual camouflage of a man of his type put on the defensive. If, as he is reported in the papers as saying, I charged that he was a disloyal American, in effect a sympathizer of the Kaiser, and a traitor, then why did he not send me to the penitentiary for criminal libel?"

TEACHER GOES TO FRANCE.
Miss Elena E. Rice, a teacher in the Fremont high school, will leave for Belgium and northern France within the next few days to assist in organizing relief work there under government supervision. The Board of Education last evening granted Miss Rice a leave of absence from April 1 to the end of the present term. She expects to return to Oakland before the commencement of the fall term.

Oakland, March 4, 1918.
For several years I suffered with inflammation in my side, accompanied by swelling and extreme pain. After having doctored considerably for it, I was told that I had a tumor and must be operated on. Dreading an operation, I took the advice of a friend, who had been relieved of great suffering by drinking the Fong Wan Chinese Herbs. Now, after having taken the herbs for a few weeks, the pain and swelling are entirely gone and the supposed tumor has vanished.

that the President adopted the means he did of reaching the Russian mind. His message, brief and pithy, was stripped of everything not absolutely vital. With engaging candor, it was pointed out, he sketched the situation as it exists and in simple, direct language commended the United States to the support of a real Russia.

RUSS PREPARE TO LEAVE MOSCOW
The Russian government is prepared to move from Moscow to some point further east if the German armies continue to advance into Russia. A message to the state department today from American Consul Summers at Moscow, dated March 8, said the government was expected there next day and that arrangements would be made to move to some other city if it became necessary.

A cablegram from Ambassador Francis at Volodga, which said nothing of any intention to move the American embassy staff farther east, was interpreted as meaning that the ambassador was preparing to leave there.

STOCKHOLM, March 12.—The Red Guard contingents in Helsinki are becoming more violent in their activities, according to a despatch from Vasa, Finland. They are proceeding in "quite a deliberate manner, adds the despatch, "choosing their victims from among the intellectual classes, assassinating principally the clergy and landed proprietors."

HARBIN, Manchuria, March 12.—General Semenov, anti-Bolshevik leader in Siberia, has retreated into Manchuria before the advance of a superior Bolshevik force, according to a despatch from the border. The accuracy of the Bolshevik fire during the fighting is taken to indicate the cooperation of former German prisoners.

General Semenov brought his dead and wounded with him in his retreat. The supply outfit, a supporting detachment are to leave Harbin tonight. General Semenov's munitions are reported exhausted, as well as the funds at his disposal.

SITUATION IS GROWING SERIOUS
Officials of the allies at Harbin agree that the situation in Manchuria is growing worse. Yesterday the workmen refused to move guns and trains to the aid of General Semenov and were planning the destruction of the supply outfit of the Loyal Cossacks, however, forced the movement of the relief trains.

Reliable observers, according to reports received by the Associated Press correspondent, have found that there is a widespread pro-German propaganda, with speech making by Bolshevik orators among the workmen, with never a word of a pro-ally nature.

The American consul at Harbin, distributed 15,000 copies of President Wilson's speeches and a similar number have been scattered by the consul at Vladivostok.

TAKE TEAMSTER WHO KILLED MAN
SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—The police arrested today William Lawrence, 82 Perry street, a teamster, who shot and killed George Rowland, 37, another teamster, in his home at 618 Natoma street last night, in a fight which ended a party at Rowland's home. Lawrence escaped, although Policemen Patrick Cronin and William O'Connor arrived on the scene a few minutes after the shooting.

According to the police Rowland had been entertaining Lawrence, Chauncey Denckla, another teamster, 301 Railroad avenue, and two girls, Edith Mayes, 3 Lucky street, and Myrtle Vance, both candy workers, in his home. The police say Lawrence, who fell with a bullet in his chest, was the first to attack Mayes, who he then openly attacked her, when Rowland stepped in and admonished Lawrence.

Witnesses say that Lawrence drew two revolvers and fired one shot point blank at Rowland, who fell with a bullet in his chest. Lawrence then fled from the house while Denckla and the girls crouched in terror.

The police thoroughly searched the neighborhood a few minutes later, but failed to find any trace of Lawrence until this forenoon, when he surrendered himself.

POLICE ARE SHOWN
Chief of Police Nedderman, Captain of Police Frank Lynch, Captain of Inspectors Harry Green, City Commissioners W. H. Edwards and F. F. Jackson, County Auditor E. F. Garrison, Frank P. Goding of the Department of Justice, City Clerk Lon S. Cummings and a lot of other city and county notables had the uncanny experience of having their minds read and the various articles in "The Master Mind," and yesterday when Prescott, billed at Pantheas this week as "The Master Mind," and his associate, Hope Eden, gave a demonstration of their work.

The demonstration took place in the office of Chief of Police Nedderman and the various officials of the city government and the officials of the police department what they were thinking about took place.

"I'm not saying that this is either mystic or scientific. I'll let you gentlemen judge by the results," explained Prescott. And with this preliminary he started his demonstration reading the inscriptions on cards, telling the dates on coins and then switched to the demonstration of material mind-reading, declared by the mind reading fraternity to be the most difficult stunt of all.

"He's same heart," declared Chief Nedderman when the demonstration closed.

HUNS ARE BUYING BOLSHEVIKI GUNS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Government supplies, including everything from siege guns to passports, are being auctioned off by the Bolsheviks and great quantities are being taken by German agents, according to A. Van Seters, banker of Moscow, who has arrived here and is at the Hotel St. Francis. The price of a passport has been set at 500 rubles, Van Seters says, permits to purchase and drink vodka are bartered at set prices by the ringleaders of the present government.

Van Seters says that by spring the Germans will have the greater part of the artillery and millions of small arms of the disbanded and disorganized Russian forces. He says the morale of the Russian army is indescribable, that there is absolutely no discipline, and that so far as an officer of the old regime is a dangerous position.

"The greatest mistake of the Bolsheviks was to declare the churches of Russia public property," says the Moscow banker. "With this declaration came a system of pillage and plunder of the sacred edifices that extended from one end of the country to the other."

EUGENE CURLEY IN FRANCE.
Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Curley, of 1895 Adelphi street, received word today that their son, Eugene R. Curley, had arrived safely in France. Curley was formerly with the Three Hundred and Sixty-third Infantry at Camp Lewis, but was sent to France in 1917. Before entering the army he was with the State Board of Control at Sacramento. He is an attorney and is a graduate of the 1915 class at the University of California, where he was prominent in athletics and dramatics.

GERMAN KILLS HIMSELF.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Wm. Kroeger, a well-to-do German saloon-keeper of 1700 O'Connell street, committed suicide between 2 and 3:30 a. m. by shooting himself in the mouth. The body was found by Bartender Louis Schilling. Kroeger was 47 years old. No cause for his action is known.

FINED FOR HAVING DUCK UNLAWFULLY

William C. Jurgens, vice-president and general manager of Hotel Oakland, pleaded guilty before Police Judge Mortimer Smith today to a misdemeanor charge of having wild ducks in his possession out of season and was fined $50.

J. H. Hunter, chief deputy fish and game warden, stated to Judge Smith that he had made a thorough investigation of the Hotel Oakland case and found that the prominent guests of the hotel were originally charged with the offense of having ducks credited to them in the cold storage department of the hotel, were in no way to blame. Manager Jurgens assumed the burden of the offense.

Those against whom warrants were issued ten days ago and then withdrawn pending further investigation of the case included: Attorney Harmon Bell, food administrator for the city of Oakland; George C. Morgan, Jr.; Mrs. Charles T. Hutchinson, George C. Walker, Mrs. R. W. Westover and William Berovich. All denied that they knew there were any ducks in storage to their credit. Tags bearing their names were found on the ducks during a raid on the refrigerator by deputy fish and game wardens.

MAN RELEASED BY JUDGE ON PLEA OF WIFE

After causing the arrest of her husband on a battery charge, Mrs. Peter McDonald pleaded with Police Judge Mortimer Smith for his release today, stating that she needed him to care for herself and five children. McDonald was placed on probation for two years, with the admonition that he stay away from all places where liquor is sold and refrain from drinking during that period.

Charles H. Rowe pleaded guilty to a "drunk" charge and was placed on probation for six months under the same conditions as McDonald obtained liberty. Rowe has a wife and child.

SENT NOTICE OF FREIGHT RAISES

Notice was received today by the traffic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of the approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the application by Western railroads to increase import and export commodity rates, and also the approval of an increase in terminal charges at Seattle and Tacoma, asked by the St. Paul Railroad.

According to the traffic bureau the decision does not affect the local traffic situation in any way, as Oakland's rates are affected by former decisions on the same matter.

MEDAL WON IN TUSCANIA LOSS

Frank J. Thomas, of Company E, Sixth Battalion, Twentieth Engineers, whose home is at 1109 Thirty-fourth street, a survivor of the Tuscania sinking, is one of the first Californians to be awarded a medal for bravery. In a letter to his mother, Mrs. I. R. Thomas, he tells how he received a medal for saving a comrade who fell out of a lifeboat.

"Well, folks, I did my part to help being saved," writes Thomas. "I knew how to row and also how to lower the boats. When the patrol boat picked us up, fifty-two of us in the boat, we were crowded to the limit. One of the boys fell out of the boat and I pulled him in by lifting him aboard. I was given a medal for this."

"One of the boys, a friend whom I met at Angel Island, was lost. He was on boat 13. His name was Clyde Jenkins of Chico, Cal. From now on No. 13 is a hoodoo with me. Most of the boys that were lost were on board No. 13."

"Dear old Ireland will never be forgotten by us boys. She treated us fine. Better-hearted people never lived. We have plenty to eat here and sleep in warm barracks. But the air is cold over here."

Thomas said his regiment was awaiting re-equipment and were ready to go to France as soon as that was received.

Private Leslie L. Nichols, also of Company E, Sixth Battalion, Twentieth Engineers, of San Francisco, another Tuscania survivor, tells of how he drifted in a lifeboat, half filled with ice water, for five hours in a letter to his brother, O. H. Nichols, of 1157 Seventy-first avenue, this city. Private Nichols tells how he was sitting on his bunk just ready to go to sleep when the torpedo struck. He described the lowering of the lifeboats and how he was the last man to get into boat 14.

"I was standing up in the stern in water up to my knees bailing just as fast as I could for five hours, until we were picked up by a patrol boat."

SURVIVORS BACK

SEATTLE, March 12.—Survivors of the steamship Admiral Evans, which was wrecked on the beach at Hawk Inlet, Alaska, after striking a rock in the outer harbor Saturday night, are on their way to Seattle aboard the Princess Sophia, according to word received by the Pacific Steamship Company officials here today.

Captain Glasscock and his officers are standing by the wreck. Cannery machinery on the ship may be salvaged, they say.

Wireless Operator Howard Canender is the hero of the wreck, according to messages received here. He refused to leave his post until the icy waters had risen above his waist, while he sent out S. O. S. calls.

BIDWELL FUNERAL

CHICO, March 12.—Eight Indians from the Medchoopda Indian village, which was given to them by the Bidwell family, acted as pallbearers today at the funeral of Mrs. Annie Bidwell, prominent pioneer woman.

Thousands of people attended the funeral and business houses in Chico closed their doors.

LENANE IN FRANCE

CITY AUDITOR I. H. Clay has received a letter from France written by William F. Lenane, a former employee in the city hall, who enlisted more than a year ago. Lenane stated that he has found everything satisfactory in France and that all he is waiting for "is to get a crack at the Kaiser."

MARY MacLANE

"Men Who Have Made Love to Me" Comes to the American.

Six leading men support Mary MacLane, the eccentric genius and famous woman writer, in her first photoplay, "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," based on her book, "I, Mary MacLane," which opens at the American commencing tomorrow. These men are her sutors in the play and were her suitors in real life—men of all temperaments and tempera—men of all ages and social conditions—men of all nations—men of all colors—men of all creeds—all losers in this particular quest for love.

They were each smitten by her strange, eerie personality and indefinable charm, and each loser in their different methods of courtship—finally baffled by her strange, piquant moods, her smouldering eyes that aroused nothing more satisfactory than unrest.

The old love affairs, according to Miss MacLane's screen interpretation, lived and excited while they lasted, but once gone, were forgotten, nor ever worried her one whit. They all retreated into the oblivion of indifference—aided and abetted by the "suspensions of the nerves." For in her nature, the strange woman, who has lived widely and thought broadly, declares that "the bones" there will be other lovers—interesting as long as they do not tire.

In the second feature of the double bill, "Reverence," Edith Storey returns to the screen in the type of role which originally made her famous, that of a wholesome, athletic girl of the golden west. Tonight's performances conclude the engagement of the popular film star Harold Lockwood, in "Broadway Bill" and Soula Markova, in "A Heart's Revenge."

ARRANGE GUARDS

SEATTLE, March 12.—Tacoma and Seattle police authorities today have before them complete plans for adequate protection of all water-front property in these cities as the result of a conference of representatives of both cities held last night.

Chief of Police Joel Warren of Seattle outlined the plan, which is to have guards in old style soldier uniforms, the number of guards and their positions to be designated by Federal authorities under the alien enemy zone proclamation.

RESUME HEARING

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Hearings before the Senate naval committee on the bill authorizing the government to take over and operate oil and gas lands in the California and Wyoming naval reserves will be resumed Thursday, Acting Chairman Swanson announced today. A. C. McLaughlin, representing the Southern Pacific railroad, which has claims in the California naval reserves, will be the first witness. Many California oil operators will be called.

ARCTIC EXPLORER STEFANSSON IS ILL ON ISLAND

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 12.—Despatches received from Dawson, Y. T., said fears were expressed in the northern city for the recovery of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, now wintering at Hershel Island, in the Arctic Ocean. The despatches said latest advices from the northern sea indicated that the explorer was a sick man.

CHEMICAL FIRE

SEATTLE, March 12.—Fire caused by the breaking of a beaker of boiling toluene menaced Bazel hall, the chemistry building at the University of Washington, here late yesterday.

A dozen fire extinguishers held the fire in check until fire department apparatus arrived. Had the fire reached a large quantity of other explosives under a desk a serious explosion probably would have followed, as a stock room with a $50,000 supply of chemicals was located within 10 feet of the fire.

Tendency to Constipation?

USE THIS LAXATIVE!

Dietitians advise a "careful diet," but that is troublesome to most people; physical culturists advise "certain exercises," which is good if one has both the time and the inclination. Doctors advise diet and exercise and medicine. The question is, shall it be a cathartic or purgative medicine? Or a mild, gentle laxative?

Thousands have decided the question to their own satisfaction by using a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A small dose gives a free, easy movement of the bowels. It is the best substitute for nature herself. In fact, since the ingredients are wholly from the vegetable kingdom it may truthfully be said it is a natural laxative.

Its positive but gentle action on the bowels makes it an ideal remedy for constipation. The dose is small, and it may be taken with perfect safety until the bowels are regulated and act again of their own accord.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

AMERICANIZATION.

In formulating its plan for the Americanization of the foreign born citizens and the aliens who have permanently made the United States their home, the federal Bureau of Education no doubt was cognizant of the magnitude of the task before it. It is fully aware of the fact that schools to instruct the foreign born population in the English language and the fundamentals of citizenship obligations and privileges, however valuable and necessary these are, will hardly scratch the surface of the great body of humanity that needs attuning to the ideals and aspirations of the American nation.

Samuel Hopkins Adams, in an article in Everybody's for February, called attention to the fact that the present occupants of the soil of the United States born abroad or of foreign-born parents make up about one-third of our entire population. Half of this element are males of working age, and how little they, the illiterate among them, tend to merge consciously with our civilization is suggested by the fact that only four in a thousand attend school to speak English. In the iron and steel industries east of the Mississippi fifty-seven per cent of the employees are foreign-born. In the mines of the soft coal States more than sixty-one per cent are foreign born. The same percentage of the employees of North Atlantic woolen mills and seventy-two percent of the operatives of the manufacturing trades of New York, Rochester, Baltimore and Chicago are foreign born.

All communities of the country are not faced with the foreign-born problem in such startling proportions, but all are able to appreciate the fact that something must be done, some method devised, to reach the bulk of citizens that need Americanization promptly and effectively. There is no difficulty as to the disposition of the subjects; they are ready to be initiated into intelligent citizenship. They are not responsible for the neglect of the past, and those who comprehend that they have been neglected do not understand why.

It is obvious that the Americanization problem must be approached from many angles, as many as possible, and that many citizens must give thought and a part of their time to its solution. Night schools and schools for adults are good so far as they go, but there are not enough of them, nor are they able to reach a sufficient proportion of the foreign-born population, or to get in touch with all the immigrants upon their arrival. What supplementary or other principal processes may be devised? This question cannot be evaded; patriotic service to the country requires that it be answered in the substance.

It is to the credit of Oakland that much study has been given to this subject and at least one original idea, so far as THE TRIBUNE is informed, has been developed for aiding in the assimilation of the foreign population. It is the suggestion of Mr. Felix Schreiber, a naturalized citizen of Polish birth and a teacher of the foreign classes in Oakland night schools. Through his efforts an organization known as the Sons and Daughters of Washington has been formed and for over a year it has been engaged in educational and social work among foreign-born residents through the night schools, the homes and community meetings.

From resolutions adopted by this organization at a mass meeting it appears that its work and goal is greater Americanization. It admits its belief that permanent world peace can only come through loyalty to the cause for which the better half of humanity is making sacrifices now and through confidence "in the champion of that cause, the President of the United States." Its work is based on loyalty to and confidence in the government of the United States and all government; information to bring about an appreciation of the patrimony left to America and the world by Washington; observance of the laws enacted to maintain social order; harmony, unity and fraternity, and education.

This program would seem to fit in admirably with any general scheme the federal and local government, the schools and civic organizations may adopt for the Americanization of the foreign element. Certainly its potential usefulness is great; it provides a medium for interesting the citizen or resident in need of help in his own case and for making him receptive to such facilities for his enlightenment as may be offered.

Mr. Schreiber's idea is not patented, nor does it preclude the consideration of any other plan for treating a very grave national ailment. The more thinking, the more suggestions and the more service in this connection the better.

WHAT INDUSTRY FEARS.

Serious consideration is being given in many quarters to the question of government control of business and industries after the war ends. While no intelligent operator is complaining against government regulation and control as a means for winning the war, there are many who fear that the continuation of control by the government after peace is established would bring nothing short of disaster. The spectre of nationalization of industries is very real in England, and in a public address in London a few days ago, Lord Inchcape stated very tersely the thought in the mind of business and industry operators everywhere. He said in part:

"While no one objects to those who are responsible for the Government making such arrangements as they may consider necessary in the matter of control while the war is on, so as to secure adequate supplies for our army and navy and for the feeding of the people, there is a feeling that the officials who are in office during the crisis through which we are passing may be reluctant to relinquish the power with which they are for the moment invested, and that they will wish to continue the dragooning to which we are all now subjected."

"This feeling is occasioning considerable unrest in all business circles, and I make bold to say if any government or any body of officials succeeds in getting control of the business of the country, or nationalizes its industries, they will kill the goose which has laid the golden eggs of the last two centuries, a goose which has enabled us to bear the financial burden of this war against the flagrant attempt to conquer Europe and reduce Great Britain to the position of a vassal State."

"It would be a miserable ending to this war if, after having fought the Germans for freedom, we found ourselves under the galling heel of officialdom in our own country."

"Speaking for myself, after a long business experience of a varied kind, I want no assistance from the Government. Government assistance invariably means control and restriction. I prefer to paddle my own canoe. I am perfectly willing to help the Government in every way I can, but I want no help from it in carrying on my business."

These sentiments are not peculiarly British. They are felt quite definitely in the United States. While no official statement or projected legislation give ground for the serious belief that the Government intends to retain control of any business after the war, the Government should not hesitate to clear up any and all misapprehension on this point as soon as it arises. Nothing should be done to make private business and capital uncertain as to its status after the war. Every incentive should be given to the quickening of plans for after-war operation.

A SIGN OF FRENCH STRENGTH.

In a recently-issued bulletin, the Alliance Francaise, an association for the diffusion of the French language in the colonies and abroad, attention is directed to the condition of the savings banks of France at the close of more than three years of war. As the Alliance sees it, the way in which the popular savings banks have borne the crisis through which the nation has been passing for three and a half years, is a question of great interest. As their credit is partly based on the state's credit, the confidence shown by the depositors in the savings banks is an indication of their confidence in France's future.

The total deposits in the savings banks on December 31, 1913, was 4,110,000,000 francs; on December 31, 1915, this had only fallen to 3,825,000,000 francs; on December 31, 1916, it stood at 3,493,000,000 francs. In the meantime withdrawals for subscription to the national loans amounted to 554,000,000 francs, which added to the capital in the banks at the end of 1916, makes 4,047,000,000 francs, or nearly the same amount as held at the end of 1913. The situation grew even better in 1917, when for the first time since the beginning of the war deposits exceeded the withdrawals. The excess of deposits over withdrawals from January 1 to December 1, 1917, was 138,000,000 francs. At the present time the sum due depositors is greater than before the war, if the withdrawals for war loan subscriptions are not considered.

These figures tell of the sound confidence of the people of France in the savings banks of their country. The clientele of the savings banks is mainly drawn from small shopkeepers, peasants, domestic servants and mechanics. This sign of faith on the part of the working classes in the credit of France is the best assurance to other nations that France is strong morally and financially with reference to the war.

A single Thrift Stamp will buy a tent pole or five tent pins, a waist belt or hat cord, shoe laces or identification tags; two will buy one trench coat or a pair of woolen gloves. Four Thrift Stamps will buy two pairs of canvas leggings, six will buy five pairs of woolen socks or three suits of summer underwear; twelve will buy a steel helmet. One War Savings Stamp will buy one hundred cartridges or a cartridge belt or a scabbard for a bayonet, two will purchase two pairs of woolen breeches or two flannel shirts, two and a half will buy a gas mask. Three War Savings Stamps will buy an overcoat or two woolen service coats, three and a half will buy three pairs of woolen blankets; four will buy a rifle.

NOTES and COMMENT

The Emperor of the Huns says: "We owe our victory largely to the moral and spiritual treasures which the great philosopher of Königsberg bestowed upon our people." In this the Kaiser shows a tendency to liberalize. He is willing in a qualified sense to make it a triumvirate by the recognition of Immanuel Kant to a standing with himself and God.

New Jersey is a State which hoboos are inclined to circle in their movements to and fro. It has a law which is unfriendly to the person who is not busy with a job. Texas also is inclined that way, and all States may find such an enactment desirable. And laws of this kind may be found to work so well in wartime that they will persist in piping times of peace.

The present proposition to cede Goat Island for a railroad terminal is not the first or the second one, as some may understand. Twenty-five years ago a bill was introduced in Congress to cede it to the State for railroad terminal purposes. It evidently failed to get very far for such measures were then not popular.

When the Huns extend their diver operations to include ships that are supplying Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, the question will become acute as to whether these countries will curl up, or assert themselves. The time is bound to come when they will have to choose between these courses of action.

Will Cressy be not satisfied with the amount of bunting that is displayed in this town. It may be that we have been unconsciously remiss here in this respect, but it should not be regarded as a reflection on local patriotism. No doubt the mention of it will correct the lapse.

The Consul-General of Mexico objects to Herman Whitaker's film on the score that "it attacks the modesty of Mexican women." This objection had not been taken account of, and it is possible that the charge is due to over-wrought nerves.

Gradually the law is establishing bounds in unusual directions beyond which man may not go. A court has decreed that for a husband to kiss his wife when she is not in a mood to be kissed amounts to assault and battery. It happened in New Jersey, but maybe the New Jersey magistrate has set the pace.

The statistician is ever at it. Here is one who has figured out that if the cost of the war was represented in copper pennies, and the pennies were made into cables, there would be seven of them long enough to reach to the moon. This would be important if the war was in the moon, but unfortunately it is most emphatically mundane.

The way the semi-pros are looming up after a most successful winter suggests that they are going to contend for the attention of the baseball fans this summer.

The supervisors of Shasta believe in giving the dogs a chance. They have increased the scalp bounty on coyotes from $2.50 to $5, and repealed the dog license. Both animals are partial to mutton, and the dogs may not have been getting a fair show.

Here is a man who is drawing a picture of the motor car of the future and making it just about as different from that of today as it can possibly be. If we did not recall how different that of today is from that of twenty years ago we might be inclined to scoff at him. But progress is so rapid that it is not safe to scoff at anything.

The attorney for the fishermen, who have arrived at a definite locking of horns with the market director, is somewhat epigrammatic. He says: "We do not question Velstock's purposes, but it would seem that in his ultra progressiveness he has forgotten the constitution."

The egg men are cheering us up with information that the worst is yet to come. It is represented that owing to the high price of feed spring chickens are not being hatched within seventy-five per cent of what is customary, and this is bound to reduce the egg product until the prohibitive price of one dollar a dozen is reached. With bacon at 55 cents a pound, the ham and prospect is not bright.

The bill to fix the price of wheat at $2.45 a bushel ought to be captioned "An act to take about $250,000,000 more from the pockets of the mercilessly exploited, underpaid, underfed and underclothed toilers of the cities and towns and hand it over to the producers who are profiting as never before in their lives."—Houston Post.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Whether it is with lady or men drivers, an auto race is a dangerous pastime, not only for the drivers but for the spectators as well. This fact has been proven on more than one occasion on the track at Stockton, and yet the authorities grant the privilege and the drivers take the chances. We put a ban on prize fighting because it was brutal, yet we permit auto racing to go on.—Tracy Press.

Perhaps nothing ought to be surprising that develops in connection with Henry, but that he should have attempted to put anything of this kind over on the California Democratic Party is really one of the funny features of a campaign that promises not to be wanting in interest. It seems that when Henry registered in Santa Monica in the early part of 1916 he "declined to state" his party affiliation. But as the time for the primary election drew along he had a change of heart and filed a new affidavit, cancelling the original "decline to state" and finally registering as a Republican.—San Bernardino Sun.

INVOCATION TO BACCHUS.

(Horace, Ode XIX, Book II)

I saw the great god of the fruitful vine,
The titular divinity of wine,
Reformed, converted and atoning hymns—
In earnest, too, and not through drunken whims—

Recovered from a hooting-tooting
jag,
He'd found himself astraddle of a crag
And organized right there a singing-school;
A beating time with his old tuning tool.

For garish nymphs and that goat-footed crowd
Of satyrs which around him he allowed,
By terror infinite my heart was stunned—
No god so dreadful as a god reformed.

Parce Liber, ye god of streams and sea
Who on the distant mountain-tops make free—
When flushed with wine—with those Bistonian girls
And mingle vipers with their wind-blown curls.
Your military record too I sing.
A lion, tooth and toe-nail thou didst spring

On Rheatus and his whole blasphemous crowd
Assailing Jove amidst Olympian clouds
And when thou didst approach him with a horn
Not even Cerebus leaped in scorn, But brushed you fondly with his wagging tail, Caressing you when outward-bound you hit the trail.

WAR LEAGUE FAVORS WAR GARDEN PLAN

By HARRY L. SULLY.

Following the endorsement of the plan to establish a municipal market in Oakland by the War Service League, letters are being sent out to the district clubs and the component organizations, of which there are more than 130 represented in the league, urging them to cooperate in the war garden and increased food production movements.

The War Service League, the Councils of Defense and the Mobilized Women, working under the advice of the Farm Bureau of the College of Agriculture, University of California, are campaigning for increased food production and for the establishment of a municipal market as a medium of exchange for the excess products, locally grown, which will cut down the need of bringing food from long distances and will aid in the conservation of war foods.

The following letter is being sent out by Robert R. James, chairman of the war garden and market committee, to the organizations:

WAR GARDENS.

"Kindly emphasize the importance of the war gardens work in stimulating food production and conserving a vast and important resource now largely going to waste. Refer to the vacant lot on the one hand, and the men, women and children on the other hand, who have time which would be conserved in cultivating them.

"Urges all members having lots which they will not use to list them with your committee man at once. Plead with each one having spare time to enlist in this great healthful work of production by registering for one or more tracts of ground at once. We are prepared through the state farm adviser and State University to furnish information on soil, seeds, crops to grow and methods of production. Make your wants known to your committee and we will see that you receive all necessary information.

"So far as possible we will endeavor to furnish you with a speaker on war gardens if you will acquaint us with your needs in advance.

"Ask your neighbor to let you list that vacant lot of his. It grows rank weeds; it will grow beans, or garden truck and be a source of pride, not an eye-sore."

CURBSTONE MARKET.

The curbstome market plan, advocated by Marcus A. Lee, Alameda county farm advisor, is being endorsed by a number of organizations and will probably be urged upon the city council and the Board of Market Directors. The Spectator, the official publication of the Santa Fe Improvement Association, the largest improvement club in Oakland, in its latest issue endorses the market plan and urges giving a trial to the curbstome plan in the near future. The plan has also been endorsed by the Down Town Property Owners' Association and several other civic organizations.

"The Spectator," speaking for the Santa Fe Improvement Association, urges the curbstome market plan in the following editorial:

URGES MOVE.

"The Oakland TRIBUNE, in a series of daily articles by Harry L. Sully has been urging the establishment of a municipal market as a means of reducing the high cost of living. The Spectator has urged this same proposition on numerous occasions in the last few years when none of the Oakland papers would give it any publicity. The Alameda County Civic Association and the Progress and Prosperity Committee, through their joint municipal market committee, were the first to study this question and the conclusions of that committee are to be found in a lengthy report rendered to the two organizations. About a year ago Mayor Davis appointed a municipal market commission which held a number of meetings and finally asked for an appropriation of about $60,000 for the purpose of establishing a municipal market in Oakland.

"The city council very wisely, however, refused any such sum of money at this time, when the scarcity of farm labor, brought about by the war, and the consequent unwillingness of the farmers to spend much time away from their farms, makes the success of such an undertaking doubtful. A much more reasonable plan is the suggestion of the Alameda County Civic Association to try out the project by the establishment of

MISS FERN ELAINE
FULLER

Miss Fern Elaine Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuller, entertained the members of the Junior Rubini Musical Club at the home of her parents, 1326 Grand avenue, the occasion being marked by a recital given by the youthful members of the club to their parents, who were invited as guests.

The musical ability of the children, ranging from six to twelve years, astonished the adults no less than the confidence with which they performed difficult compositions. The organization is made up of a number of children who are studying music and who meet at each other's homes to play together. The officers of the club are: President, Ruth Wingfield; secretary, Fern Elaine Fuller; press committee, Gertrude Wright; program committee, Karla Nickle, Frederick Phelps and Barbara Bruden.

The program opened with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," accompanied by little Gerald Austin on the piano. Prizes were awarded for the best rendered numbers on the program. Luncheon was served after the recital. The recital included a duet sung by Mildred Fowler and Mrs. Nickle; Schumann's "Traumerei"; rendered by Margery Chandler, violin; and Gerald Austin, piano; "Pierrette," Chamade, played by Fern Elaine Fuller; Dvorak's "Humoresque," rendered by Margery Chandler, violin; and a piano solo by Fern Elaine Fuller.

Numbers by Glenora Carey, Barbara Broden, Ruth Wingfield, Frances Rice, Naomi Wingfield, Karla Nickle, Catherine Whitson and Josephine Haines.

Mystery surrounds the self-inflicted deaths of two soldiers, one of whom was to have been married soon, at Camp Fremont on Sunday.

Andrew J. Henninger, a private in Company I, 13th infantry, shot himself through the head in his tent, dying instantly. Sergeant Edmund M. Hooper, of Company F, 62nd infantry, killed himself in the same manner a short time later.

As far as is known the two men did not know each other, and their quarters were widely separated. A young woman, who declared she was Henninger's fiancée, appeared at the camp yesterday, but left without giving her name when she heard of his death. Henninger was from Iowa, 24 years of age. He was regarded as a fine soldier and was popular with his comrades. Hooper also was well liked and appeared to be in good spirits up to the time of his death. He was 32 years of age and had served six years in the army. His home was at Schuyler, Neb.

a curbstome market, as many other cities have done. This would involve no expense to the city, as the only thing necessary would be the creation of a market zone by designating certain blocks in the downtown district for that purpose. If the project is successful, it will be time enough to consider the erection of a market building."

IF INGENUITY IS NEED, CALL JOE KELLER

If State Parole Officer Joseph L. Keller of Oregon and his chief deputy ever are out of employment, they can secure life jobs with a first-class gang of high-grade kidnapers. For yesterday they showed the officials of two counties how it can be done in spite of a clever attorney, any number of legal prohibitions, and the combined strategy of three police departments.

Parole Officer Keller came from Oregon to get C. B. Smith, wanted in the northern State for alleged violation of parole. Smith was released from San Quentin a week ago. As he came out, Keller was sitting on a rock outside the gate waiting for him. Smith was not overjoyed at the reception and refused to accompany Keller. Whereupon Keller threw him into a high pressure automobile and spirited him away.

CAUGHT AT STATION.

Attorney Roy C. Lewis, Smith's legal representative, hearing about it, and before Keller could get out of the State, secured a writ of habeas corpus and caught Keller and his prisoner at the Oakland Sixteenth-street station. Keller hung around like a colored man with his eye on a hen roost and right under Lewis' nose he abducted Smith a second time. This time Lewis secured a writ from the District Court of Appeals and brought his client back. He also swore to a warrant charging Keller with abduction. He then placed his client in the county jail for safe keeping.

Yesterday he went to Sacramento for a much-needed rest. Keller, who had been keeping out of sight, appeared at the county jail with an order from Governor Stephens directing that Smith be turned over to him. This was done. At the same time the county jail authorities served their abduction warrant on Keller. Whereupon Keller produced a deputy and a second order from Governor Withcomb, of Oregon, directing that the prisoner in Keller's custody be turned over to the deputy. The jail authorities had no discretion in the matter. So they turned Smith over to the deputy and sent Keller, who said he was ill, to a local hotel under guard on the abduction charge.

"GOT ME AGAIN."

The first intimation that Attorney Lewis, Smith's lawyer, had that all was not well on the Potomac was when he received a telegram at Sacramento from Smith that "they've got me again," and that he was being rushed to Oregon, via Reno. By the time Lewis got the message, the prisoner and prisoner was merrily on his way.

The Marin county authorities, in whose jurisdiction the abduction charge lies, declare they will prosecute Keller to the full extent of the law. He was a former police captain in Portland and has been parole officer for years. He is the personal representative of Governor Withcomb.

WANT BIRTH RECORD LAW ENFORCED

There has gone to the State Board of Education from the assembled child welfare workers of Alameda county a resolution appealing to that body to give serious consideration to the enforcement of the present birth registration laws of the State to the end that all children in California be registered. Under the auspices of the Child's Welfare League of Alameda County, a half hundred men and women representing the various organizations interested in the promotion of child standards met yesterday at the St. Mark Hotel to confer on the work which immediately confronted them. Mrs. H. N. Rowell of Berkeley, treasurer of the National Congress of Mothers, and past president of the California Congress of Mothers, was in the chair.

The second resolution which was endorsed urged the employment of home teachers by all boards of education in Alameda county as a part of the broad campaign for Americanization. A third resolution made an appeal to the board of supervisors for an additional county dentist to attend to the teeth of the children in the rural district. Already the county has two men working in the Oakland clinic. The duty of the new man will be to travel through the out-of-town places performing services for the students who cannot get into the established offices. A group of leaders will appear before the board of supervisors to support their resolution and to explain how important the care of the teeth is in the moral and civic life of the community.

County Superintendent of Schools G. W. Peck offered to sign with Mrs. C. R. Reddy, president of the second district, Congress of Mothers, a letter addressed to the leaders in the schools in the outside districts urging upon them the organization of Parent-Teachers' associations as a war measure.

THE CHESS GAME ON THE SEAS HOW THE DIVERS HAVE FAILED

Convoyed by destroyers, greyhounds of the ocean, vast tonnage are moving steadily across the Atlantic, marking the failure of the Kaiser's diver war. There are accidents, of course—sometimes a ship is sunk, but usually the diver fails and goes down to destruction itself.

Herman Whitaker, The TRIBUNE correspondent, has written a remarkable narrative, based on actual observation and on official figures, that tells exactly how the battle with the submarine stands now. It is a thrilling story, as well as the most complete accurate record extant of the exact situation on the seas.

READ of the Scotch captain who "bolted" from his convoy, and of his fate!

READ how the trail of the diver is picked up.

READ of the depth bombs, the perils under which the submarine operates; when the seas are safest; how the destroyers ply their deadly trade; how the score stands between Uncle Sam and the Hun in the Chess Game on the Seas.

TELLS WAY TO ECONOMIZE TIME

"Deliver when you unload."

"Save empty trips."

This is the appeal to the draymen of Oakland by the Oakland committee of the United States railroad administration car service division. The appeal is made by George Sheldon, chairman of the committee, who declares that, by having car consignments ready to deliver when loads are taken off by local firms, a great saving in man-power, automobiles and time can be effected.

Sheldon's appeal to all local jobbers was delivered this morning in the following notice:

"The attention of the car service section has been called to the empty movements of teams and drivers of drayage companies during the fore part of the day.

"It is the opinion of the committee that if the shippers of freight could be prevailed upon to have a load ready to be delivered to the railroad upon the arrival of the first load of freight from the railroad in the morning there would not be such a heavy tonnage to be delivered the last couple of hours before the closing of the depots.

"A recent check of deliveries in Oakland showed that 30 per cent of the

SEEK SOURCE OF GLASS IN JAMS, JELLS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Officers of the department of justice are making a canvass of the various places in San Francisco and vicinity where jams and jellies are manufactured in order to endeavor to find a clew to the persons responsible for the mixing of ground glass with these fruit products. The fact that two little children, Helen and Rudolph Wicks, aged 7 and 3 years, were saved from injury and perhaps death only by the chance discovery of their mother that the jam they had spread upon their bread contained large quantities of glass has spurred the authorities to action.

This is the second instance of the discovery of glass in jam within 24 hours. A miner at Tonopah, Nev., found particles of glass in some jelly which he had just taken out of a tin.

SHIPBUILDERS STAGE CARNIVAL AT MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Nine Boxing Bouts Are Feature Attraction of Big Athletic Program

Funds Raised Tonight Go to Equipping Other Sports and a Clubhouse

By Eddie Murphy

City officials, shipbuilders, general managers, riveters, leading business men of the community and boiler-makers will rub elbows tonight when the Shipbuilders' Athletic Association, recently organized as the result of a movement started by The OAKLAND TRIBUNE, stages its first big athletic carnival at the municipal auditorium. Boxing, wrestling, minstrels, singing and other varied offerings are on the program which should fill the evening with good things in the entertainment line. The program will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock, and judging from the advance sale of tickets the rain will be no restraint for one of the biggest crowds that ever turned out for an athletic event on this side of the bay.

The association which was formed for the purpose of encouraging athletics among the ship yard employees and bringing the workers of the different yards together in one big body, is starting out in a way that promises to gain fame far and wide. Within the next month or two the association hopes to be one of the greatest organizations of its kind in the United States and with the leading men of all the east-bay cities promising their aid, the goal which the shipbuilders are seeking for should soon be reached.

PLAN BIG CLUBHOUSE.

By staging this big athletic carnival at the Oakland Municipal Auditorium tonight, C. M. Glidden, president of the Shipbuilders' Athletic Association, and the other directors working with him, hope to raise enough funds to lay in stock of equipment in lines of baseball, basketball, hockey, tennis, boxing, etc. They also expect that by raising the funds such as the one tonight, they will be able to erect a big clubhouse for the use of all the shipbuilders in the bay. The clubhouse would not only be a place for the workers to meet and talk over their work, but it would also provide recreation for those who are not athletically inclined.

The program will include boxing, wrestling, minstrel show and a band concert. President C. M. Glidden has secured the services of the leading city officials of Oakland and Alameda, and he has received their promises to attend the carnival. The chiefs of police of the two cities and other prominent men will occupy boxes of ringside seats. The committee handling the big affair met at a special session last night to make sure that everything is in readiness for the big show. The committee is reported to be in fine trim and should do some real entertaining. Billie "Kid" Nelson, the noted Irish tenor of the San Francisco Indoor Athletic Club, as well as the Olympic Club, will be over to sing for his first time in the Oakland Auditorium, and Billie will bring with him a few friends along with him. William "Fat" L'Hercule, former heavyweight champion amateur boxer, will also be on the job to entertain the audience with his well known voice, which proved a good drawing house for a local theater for a few weeks. It was through the friendship of L'Hercule with Billie "Kid" Nelson that the committee was able to get the San Franciscoan to sing on this side of the bay.

MINSTRELS AND BAND. Between the boxing bouts, the minstrels of the Union Iron Works and the brass band will keep things on the go, and when these come to a close, the crowd will never want to let them stop. Louie Harris who did much toward getting the band to play at the big affair, has received the promise of the leader that the best of airs will be played, with the patriotic ones being the favorites.

The "Sailor" Bill Schaffer-Joe Moore bout will be the last one on the program, but the others are all just as attractive events. Everyone is looking for the Harry Pelington-Salvador bout, to be the best of the evening, and in fact one of the best to be seen in the local arenas in some time. This bout will bring out many of the old fans, who will want to see Sally Salvador in action. Pelington is from the Moore yard, while Salvador will represent the Union Iron Works.

NEW BOY FOR FANS. Johnny Arrouser of the Union Iron Works and Joe Rodgers of the Hamilton Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Company are the next pair on the program. The supporters of Rodgers will be out strong from the Hamilton yard, and will take up the south side section of the ring. Rodgers is a new boy to the local fans and may prove to be a surprise.

While the cheering is going on, the Arrouser-Salvador bout as the big one of the night, they must not forget that

Dempsey May Be Left Out in Cold World

If Willard Is Ready to Fight, It's a Cinch That Fulton Will Be Picked.

By H. C. HAMILTON.

NEW YORK, March 12. It is really true that Jess Willard has agreed to a meeting with some one next July 4, there will be no trouble at all in getting Fred Fulton into a ring with the circus champion.

Fred has heard of the news from Colonel J. C. Miller, to wit: that Miller has accumulated Jess' signature to a contract, he is by this time doing a cross-country tour looking for a champion in order to add a signature to that document.

It may be that things will develop—Fulton may be picked to fight Willard. It is in prospect that he will keep putting the thing off and on. Then Jack Dempsey will be given consideration a few times, only to be dropped. However, it may be called a certainty that if Fulton is being sought as an opponent to Big Jess, the champion, he is the man.

Addressing the press, Miller said: "I am going to arrange a match with Fulton," he said.

Fulton Rallies From Punishment to Drop Cowler for the Count

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 12.—Fred Fulton of Rochester, Minn., knocked out the champion of New Orleans, Mike O'Leary, in a scheduled eight round bout here last night.

Cowler, up to the moment in the fight, found when Fulton landed the first round with a left hook, had pushed the fight, and in at least three of the rounds had the advantage of his opponent.

In the first round Cowler caught Fulton squarely in the chin and the Minn. boxer staggered. However, Fulton followed with a blow that closed Fulton's right eye, and the round ended with the champion of New Orleans still suffering from his punishment in the second round, but rallied and sent Cowler to the mat for the count of eight. The third and fourth rounds were almost even, with Cowler favored because of his aggressiveness.

Eastbay Summer Leagues Stir Up Other Baseball Activities

Constitution and By-Laws of Local Bodies Are Available For Other Organizations

Activities of east bay league leaders which was organized last week and will have stirred up other baseball activities in the central part of the state and when the Central California and Alameda County Leagues meet at the Maxwell Hardware Company's clubrooms Friday night there will be communications from the reorganized Stanislaus County League and from parties who hope to start another league in the same territory.

These leagues will ask to be included with the local leagues in a common working agreement that may be adopted along the lines first suggested by the Oakland and Contra Costa Leagues. The Stanislaus County League will include only four clubs this year—Turlock, Modesto, Hughson and Hickman. Of this league, W. J. Yost is president and George Ulrich is secretary-treasurer. The league will open its season April 7 and will play a twenty-four week schedule, each club meeting each other club eight times during the season. At the end of the season, the league is willing to pledge its winning club for a series with winners of other leagues for the semi-pro championship of the state.

MODESTO REDS REORGANIZE. In addition to this Stanislaus County League, the Modesto Reds in the past reorganized and are planning to start a league which would include possibly Stockton, Agnew, Merced, etc. This was one of the leagues originally suggested in The TRIBUNE's suggestions for a chain of summer leagues, but until the Modesto Reds were organized into action there was no particular evidence of baseball interest. Now the old bug is working and a San Joaquin league looks sure for the coming summer. Modesto would like to get into the Central California League with Pittsburg, Richmond, Crockett, Vallejo, etc., but these teams are trying to outdo each other in the present season. The Modesto Reds are also on the by-laws committee, but as he could not make a trip here for the committee meeting, his suggestions were worked in by the other members and he will be given a chance to go over and revise them according to his ideas before the meeting.

OTHER LEAGUE CAN COPY. The Alameda County League can adapt the same constitution and by-laws to its own use. The league is now in the hands of the by-laws committee in doing its work. The constitution and by-laws that would be adopted by the league would be for all leagues in this part of the country. Splitting of gate receipts, salaries, umpires and other matters, player limits and amounts of club funds are about the only points in these rules which would differ in the various leagues. The league will have a chance to look them over and will be at liberty to copy them in whole or in part for its own use. Address the sporting editor, The OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

FAST RICHMOND TEAM. Last season Otto Dietrich, as manager of the Richmond Reds team, gave the fans of the O. C. L. a good show. He has a semi-pro team that has represented a town around here in some years. Now Otto is out to put that same team in the hands of the Central California League team for a month or so.

The Alameda County High School League is offering four games on the baseball schedule this week, and with the Vocational and University coaches announcing that they will have their teams ready to play this week, it looks like the schedule will get going in the right way.

Coach Otto Rittler of the Alameda team has arranged to play the game off with Vocational, which was forfeited to go and Otto Rittler has shown himself a good sport by consenting to have the game played off with Vocational. The University team will likely make an appeal that their game with Technical be played off.

St. Mary's Game May Be Hit by Rain Tomorrow

Oaks Are Getting Plenty of Exercise Despite the Bad Weather.

By Carl E. Brazier

Inside baseball may be the order for the entire week for the Oaks at their Boyes Springs training camp, judging from the overhead indications today. Boss Del Howard telephoned The TRIBUNE this morning that indications at the camp are that the rain has set in for several days and he is planning to call up this afternoon to cancel the game scheduled with St. Mary's Phoenix team for tomorrow afternoon. The Boyes Springs grounds will drain fast and under ordinary conditions would be in shape to play a few hours after a storm, but the present downpour has been almost continuous at the springs since last night, and it is not probable that the rain would be in condition for play unless the rain should stop by this afternoon. If the St. Mary's game is cancelled for tomorrow, there is a chance that it may be played the following Wednesday, or that it will be played on the Oakland grounds when the Oaks break up camp and go home the latter part of next week.

The weather man is keeping the Oaks off the baseball field today, but it is not keeping the boys from getting some exercise. The baths give the boys a good chance to get in condition even when it is raining. And every time that the rain breaks away for an hour or two, Del Howard has the boys off on a hike over the hills. Last week they went "over the top" of the nearby hills and coming back they struck a district of burned-over manzanita that gave the boys a good time.

ONLY TWO ARE ABSENT.

Yesterday the boys were out and good work was done on the ball field and there was a good session of fielding practice. The boys were out with the infielders for all the time. The outfielders and Speed Martin turned out for their first practice with the squad yesterday afternoon, and Howard, who is in charge of the team, was very pleased with the exception of infielder Hollander and Pitcher Goodbrod.

The training camp is a good one. The boys are in good shape and are enjoying the camp. The camp is a good one. The boys are in good shape and are enjoying the camp. The camp is a good one. The boys are in good shape and are enjoying the camp.

SOCIETY

War weddings continue to take society by surprise, the latest of which is that of Miss Stephanie Van Slyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James I. East of Claremont avenue, Berkeley, and Leckland Blochman, son of the college city. The sudden call to orders in other parts of the country was the cause for the hastily arranged ceremony, which was witnessed at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents by relatives of the couple and a very few of their most intimate friends. Rev. W. R. H. Hodgkin, rector of All Souls' Chapel, read the service, while the bride was attended by Miss Josephine Hastings. George E. Donahue was best man for the bridegroom.

Mrs. Blochman formerly attended the College of the Holy Name in the Lakeside district and has made her home in the day section for the past four years.

Blochman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Blochman of Berkeley. He is with the Signal Corps of the United States army and left this morning for Camp Kellyfield, Texas, where he will be joined by his bride. For the time being Mrs. Blochman will remain at the home of her parents until headquarters are secured at the new station.

News of the wedding of Miss Rose V. Hinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hinkle of Santa Cruz, and Captain David P. Hardy of Berkeley has reached their friends in the bay cities, the ceremony having been performed Sunday morning, March 3, at 8 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Stephen C. May Jr. in San Francisco. For the bride, Mr. Campbell of the First Presbyterian Church officiating.

The romance was the culmination of a friendship which dates from school days, when the bride was a student at the State Normal in San Jose and her husband at the state university. The wedding had been planned for last June, but the entrance of this country into the war necessitated a change in plans. Captain Hardy has been ordered to Fort Monroe for duty. The brief honeymoon was spent in San Francisco and the following day Captain Hardy left for his post in the East, his bride returning to the home of her parents in Santa Cruz.

Another Berkeley belle whose marriage comes as a bit of a surprise to her college associates is that of Miss Gladys Brown, daughter of Assemblyman C. H. Brown and Mrs. Brown of Gridley, when she became the bride of Sergeant W. P. Perkins. Following April 1 the couple will be at home to their friends at the Morrill apartments in Berkeley.

The wedding was solemnized Saturday, March 2, at Gridley, by the Rev. and the officiating was Miss Eleanor Douglas and Harold Bieker, both of Vallejo.

Perkins is instructor in aeronautics at the University of California.

Mrs. W. D. Weaver has been spending her days here from her home in Sacramento having come down to spend a short time with her daughters, the Misses Esther and Helen Weaver, who are at present attending the University of California and Stanford, respectively.

Mrs. C. E. Gilman is enjoying a sojourn at the fashionable Riverside Inn, one of the most beautiful spots in the southern section of the state, and is to remain there for an indefinite period. Mr. Gilman and his wife are accompanied by their frequent motor trips south on the week-ends.

Knitting Yarns

By EDNA B. KINARD.

He had had cold feet for five weeks. It was no lack of covering, nor a possession of bad digestion. It was a lack of socks. Now some one was to blame. He had been so careful as boy could be. He had stepped lightly. He had advanced gingerly. But socks have a way of acquiring holes, and once started on their headlong flight to ruin—good night. The goodnight translated in literal terms was cold feet. Something was the matter with the knitters back home.

But joy and bliss unspeakable one day when despair was creeping up through his toes and coloring life with a greenish, sickish hue, the big box came aboard. It was filled with socks—warm, fleecy, thick, handmade, heaven-sent socks. And he got a pair. And he put them on. And he envied no king. His soul had been washed clean of paltry ambition and socks were enough. And he started on the deck. And he wished his mother could see him then. Then one began to hurt. It pinched. It rubbed. It tortured. He endured. He did not want to believe that anything so soft could hurt so. The grin turned to a smile, and the smile to an uncertainty. But the perplexed frown was not uncertain. Like an abused child, he crept into a quiet spot. He sat him down and took off that sock. There in his heel the blister boaster itself split open. The skin of his kind. The skin was reddened and bruised. Alas! Alas!

A ball of hard paper fell as he turned inside out what had promised heaven to him. It came from just about the spot where the blister on the bruise was. It was a disgusted chap who picked it up and unrolled its length. And this is what he read: "God bless your poor, cold feet."

This is one of Will Cressy's knitting yarns.

What's a bit of rain when a girl has a sweetheart? Nothing.

Everyone who lives in Oakland yesterday admitted that at 8 o'clock yesterday it rained and rain determinedly. There were those who were heard to say that it poured. Umbrellas, raincoats were in demand and usually accompanied a hasty pace. This is remarked merely by contrast. For in addition to all these fleeing mortals who were hurried on at the sudden release of waters, there was a girl who did not even know that it was raining. She was knitting.

She was one of those fascinating girl-girls, with a tangle of blonde hair, gathered carelessly under a fleecy white tam o'shanter, with cheeks pink as apple blossoms, and eyes as dark as midnight skies, with a dream hidden therein. There was a gleam of eyes at that knitted wool and steel needles. But she did not look up. Her thoughts were busy with "Him." So she sauntered and knitted. And the rain rained and the wind blew and the knitting grew. And she sauntered and knitted.

The rain drops caught in her curls and clung to her lips. But she just sauntered and knitted. Why bother with an umbrella when one is knitting? Why worry about the rain when the farmer seeks crops? Why do anything but dream and knit?

One may just saunter and knit, and never a twinge of rheumatism or a cold in the head.

The grim, old face of the joss is smiling just a bit. The Chinese temple room of the Chinese Masons in Boise, Idaho, as he sits and looks down over the altar which was erected to him on the scores of Twentieth Century Chinese-American women who are outgrowing him and making a deity of other things. For the Chinese Masons in Boise who have been very strict in their religious and fraternal ceremonies have surrendered even their sacred temple room. New world demands and world-wide wars have broken down customs and traditions. The Chinese women will have socks and sweaters and helmets for their man who has gone to the wars and she will make them herself if need be. So patriotism won the victory and the Chinese of Boise said, "Here you will work our countrymen," and threw their temple doors.

Men who called to worship their joss and perform their lodge rites have heretofore been the only ones permitted in the sacred room. Still burns the unquenchable light on the altar. The Chinese women will have socks and sweaters and helmets for their man who has gone to the wars and she will make them herself if need be. BLACK AND WHITE DOMINATING COLORS IN WOMAN'S NECKWEAR

Winifred Black writes about Poor Mrs. Butterfly

The butterfly wants to be a bee—poor butterfly!

She came into the room this morning, and told me all about it.

At first I wanted to smile; then I wanted to be cross, and then I wanted to cry, and then I wished I could take her right in my arms and give her a nice bowl of bread and milk, a blue bowl with dragons on it, or little bridge and a tea house and the milk half cream, and the bread home-made, with plenty of crusts, and I think I'd have it salt-rising, at that.

Then I'd rock her to sleep and let her cry all she wanted to, on my shoulder while she was going by-by—and I'd lay her down in a nice, little white bed, in a quiet little blue and white room, with cheerful yellow curtains at the window and a bowl of yellow tulips on the table.

I'd pull down the blinds and tiptoe out, and put my finger on my lip and tell everybody, "Sh-h-h." But first I would cover her up warm and warm, and soft and soft, with a blue and white eiderdown—and I would let her sleep and sleep and sleep—poor butterfly.

And maybe when she woke up she wouldn't be a little girl that looks like a woman any more, but a woman who looks like a little girl, and that's always so much nicer, and so much easier to be.

"I must do something," said Butterfly. "I really must. You see, the baby is beginning to walk now, and Tom's salary isn't big enough for all the things we need, and I get so nervous cooped up in the house, and it's awfully hard work taking care of a baby that can run away and toddle into the pantry and pull the basket of eggs down on his head, and tip over the milk pitcher and throw the clothespins out of the window, and then run into the living room and put things in the fire, and any minute he might—don't you know?"

"Besides, I feel the need of work—myself, regular, systematic work, don't you know—to keep me busy and give me something to think about and let me earn some money—there's a perfectly sweet pair of blue shoes up at Butterfield's, and I wish I could have them. No, he doesn't exactly need them. He has a pair of every-day trotaboots, and some red ones for best, but how cute he would look in those blue shoes!"

"And I want a new record for the phonograph, and there's a bird cage at the Japanese shop that would just match the curtains in the living room, and I simply ache to buy it, and very solemn—'We're in debt, and Tom worries about it. I can see that just as plain, and I'd like to help, and I don't think I can give me to do, or get for me, or something? I'd try very hard, and I don't think I'm exactly a fool.'

There wasn't a thing for poor Butterfly to do not a thing—with me, or with any of my friends. She doesn't know how to work—she just knows how to play, and she can't play any longer, what is she going to do?"

Poor Butterfly—at work?

Why, she'd turn any office in town upside down in a week. She'd bring flowers for the manager's desk and a buttonhole bouquet for the cashier and have a case on her own desk, and spill water and run to the faucet to fill the vase, and make a pet of one of the stenographers and "perfectly hate" the boss's secretary, and "couldn't bear" the chief clerk, and "rather fancy" the junior clerk, and there you'd be with the atmosphere of a nice, gay, pretty little tea house right in the business block.

No one would get a thing done, and everyone would wonder why and when she had all the files mislaid, and all the addresses lost, and forgotten all the telephone numbers, and called up all the wrong people—she'd take a fancy to go somewhere else to another office where the decorations were more becoming to her complexion—and there we'd all be, gasping—relieved and furious at the same time—wondering what she would do.

Poor Butterfly—she wouldn't want to be a bee. She never can be, and there's no earthly use for her to try.

Spring Styles Show Novelties in Eton, Sailor and Medici Collars of Ornate Design

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW.

Despite the dearth of importations to be had at the present time, the smart shops are constantly presenting a varied collection of so-called novelties in dress. The new neckwear, on account of the originality displayed by the designers in the development of old-time chemisettes and collars, commands greater interest than any of the other accessories.

While the fashions continue to be in evidence, the broad, cape-collar of the winter is conspicuously absent. The new collars of the Eton, sailor and Medici type are narrower and much more ornate than last season's neckwear.

The very smartest collars, chemisettes and jabots appear in the popular combination of black and white. This type of neckwear was formerly reserved for those in half-mourning, but this is no longer the case. Fashion now approves of black and white neckwear for the young girl or the matron.

Since the chemise blouse and pointed neckline continue in favor they create a demand for chemisette and vestes. Many of these charming bits of neck trimming have collars attached, such as the dainty confections in black and white. Bands of narrow black ribbon and white tulle are bound with black and white. A narrow strip of white chiffon holds the collar close to the neck at the back, and suspended from it in front, is a finely pleated jabot of white chiffon.

The Vogue for striped materials has invaded the realm of neckwear. The chemisettes and vestes fashioned of striped materials are severely tailored, with lines closely resembling those worn by our brothers.

One particularly smart model is of heavy white silk with a dull surface. It fastens far over one side with flat buttons of white pearl. The high collar has a turnover of striped dark blue and white silk. A bow of the material ornaments the base of the collar. Then there are other collars and chemisettes that are fashioned of stiffer materials, such as mull, chiffon, mousseline de sole, net, lace and organdie. Cuffs are frequently shown to match these dainty neck fixings.

Very different in character from the tailored neckwear is the chemisette of Medici collar of organdie and lace. Narrow strips of tucking and French Valenciennes are used to fashion this charming bit of daintiness.

The frock with a square neck possesses a certain youthfulness that is very attractive. Neckwear designed to wear with such frocks possesses the same charming quality. The turnover collar and chemisette of mull, trimmed with tiny frillings and tucking and lace, is delightfully girlish. Bands of narrow black ribbon and white tulle are bound with black and white. STOCK and BONDS

Trading Listless in Wall Street

Equipment, Utilities Features

NEW YORK, March 12.—Moderate selling, mainly of equipments and utilities, accompanied today's restricted dealings.

Stocks were barely steady at the opening, but soon strengthened under guidance of rail, shipping and the more active specialties. Marine preferred was in demand at a gain of almost two points. Union Pacific featured the high-grade transportation. Canadian Pacific rose fractionally on publication of the annual report, and coals responded to further accumulation. Motors and coppers were backward with United States Steel. Liberty bonds held steady.

The advance was halted before the end of the dull first hour on light offerings of leaders, including Reading, Union Pacific and United States Steel. Oils also held back with specialties and American Telephone was especially heavy, losing almost two points. Dealings dwindled to nominal proportions at mid-day.

The market was almost motionless in the early afternoon. Further weakness in American Telephone and recessions of two to three points in specialties featured the listless final hour. The closing was heavy. Liberty 3 1/2% sold at 97.34 to 97.46, first 48 at 96.30 to 96.40 and second 48 at 96.06 to 96.22.

The movement of prices during the periods of today's trading is indicated in greater detail in the following:

OPENING.—The railroad issues attracted most attention at the opening, gains of around one point being made in this group, Chesapeake & Ohio continued its upward movement, rising one point to 60, while Union Pacific rose 1 1/2 to 123. Lehigh Valley rose 3/4 to 62 1/2, while Reading sold up to 52. Marine preferred advanced 1 1/2 to 92 1/2, while the common rose one point to 92 1/2. Bethlehem rose 1/2 to 92 1/2, while the common rose 1/2 to 92 1/2. American Petroleum was in good demand, selling up to 88 1/2. Butte and Superior sold 1/2 higher at 24 1/2, and Industrial Alcohol made the same gain to 12 1/2.

FORENOON.—The strength which prevailed in the initial dealings was not maintained during the rest of the forenoon. The higher prices brought out a number of issues to the market, and the market was again active. The closing was heavy. Liberty 3 1/2% sold at 97.34 to 97.46, first 48 at 96.30 to 96.40 and second 48 at 96.06 to 96.22.

AFTERNOON.—The strength which prevailed in the initial dealings was not maintained during the rest of the forenoon. The higher prices brought out a number of issues to the market, and the market was again active. The closing was heavy. Liberty 3 1/2% sold at 97.34 to 97.46, first 48 at 96.30 to 96.40 and second 48 at 96.06 to 96.22.

CLOSING.—The market closed weak, government bonds irregular, railroad and other bonds steady. The higher priced issues in the stock market were subjected to a bear attack in late dealing, and most of the leading industrials, steel common touching 91. Sales, $42,500; shares, $2,976,000.

SHARP RECOVERY.—NEW YORK, March 12.—The decision of the Italian government to regulate all future dealings in foreign exchange between the United States and Italy resulted in another sharp recovery in Italian remittances here today. Lines were quoted at the equivalent of eight to the dollar, against a recent quotation of almost nine lire, which represented a discount of approximately 42 per cent.

Money Market.—NEW YORK, March 12.—Mercantile paper, 30-day bills, 4 1/2%; commercial 60-day bills on call, 4 1/2%; demand, 4 1/2%; cable, 4 1/2% to 4 3/4%. Bar silver, 36 1/2c. Mexican dollars, 69 1/2c. Government bonds heavy, railroad bonds steady.

Time loans, strong, 60 and 90 days and six months, 6 per cent. Call money, strong, 100 days, 6 1/2% to 7%.

Cotton Market.—NEW YORK, March 12.—Although price changes were greater than at the opening of the cotton market today was steady. March was down thirteen points. May dropped six points.

The close was steady at a net decline of 12 points to an advance of 12 points.

Sugar Prices.—NEW YORK, March 12.—Raw sugar steady; centrifugal, 6.00c; molasses, nominal. Refined, sugar, steady; granulated, 7.45c.

WAR EFFICIENCY

REPORT ISSUED

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Secret

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Secret

FRIENDS OF GOVERNOR CONFER HERE

Formation of an organization to make Governor Stephens' campaign in Alameda county was proposed at a conference of local friends of the Governor held at the Hotel Oakland last night. A second meeting will be held next Tuesday night, when permanent organization of an Alameda county Stephens campaign committee will probably be effected.

Addresses were made extolling Governor Stephens, and the men present were urged to get behind the Stephens campaign and to prepare for a strenuous fight in this county to elect him governor next November.

It is proposed to form clubs in Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, and the smaller cities to carry out a campaign in behalf of Governor Stephens. A strong central organization to direct the work of the district clubs will be recommended at the next meeting.

The conference last night was called to order by Elmer E. Nichols of Berkeley, secretary of the Alameda County Republican Central Committee. Wm. Nat Friend was elected temporary chairman and Assemblyman William Satterwhite temporary secretary.

MADSEN WAS PRESENT

Martin Madsen, secretary to Governor Stephens and his campaign manager, was present and made a short address, urging a strong organization in this county.

"Governor Stephens has the backing of patriotic men and women all over the State of California," said Madsen. "It is necessary only to make them realize the necessity of going to the polls and voting for their choice. For that a strong organization, with centralized authority and many enthusiastic-working district clubs, is necessary."

Senator Arthur H. Breed, president pro tem of the senate, spoke in behalf of Governor Stephens, pointing to his services in cooperation with the government in the war work, in putting California in the forefront of the states of the Union in its service to the nation and its practical demonstration of loyalty.

BREED PRAISES GOVERNOR. "Governor Stephens has been tried out in this period of stress," declared Senator Breed. "He has not been found wanting. He has been found to be a reliable, strong-willed governor, a man upon whom California can depend. It is well that we should get together and do our utmost to see that his services to this state are continued."

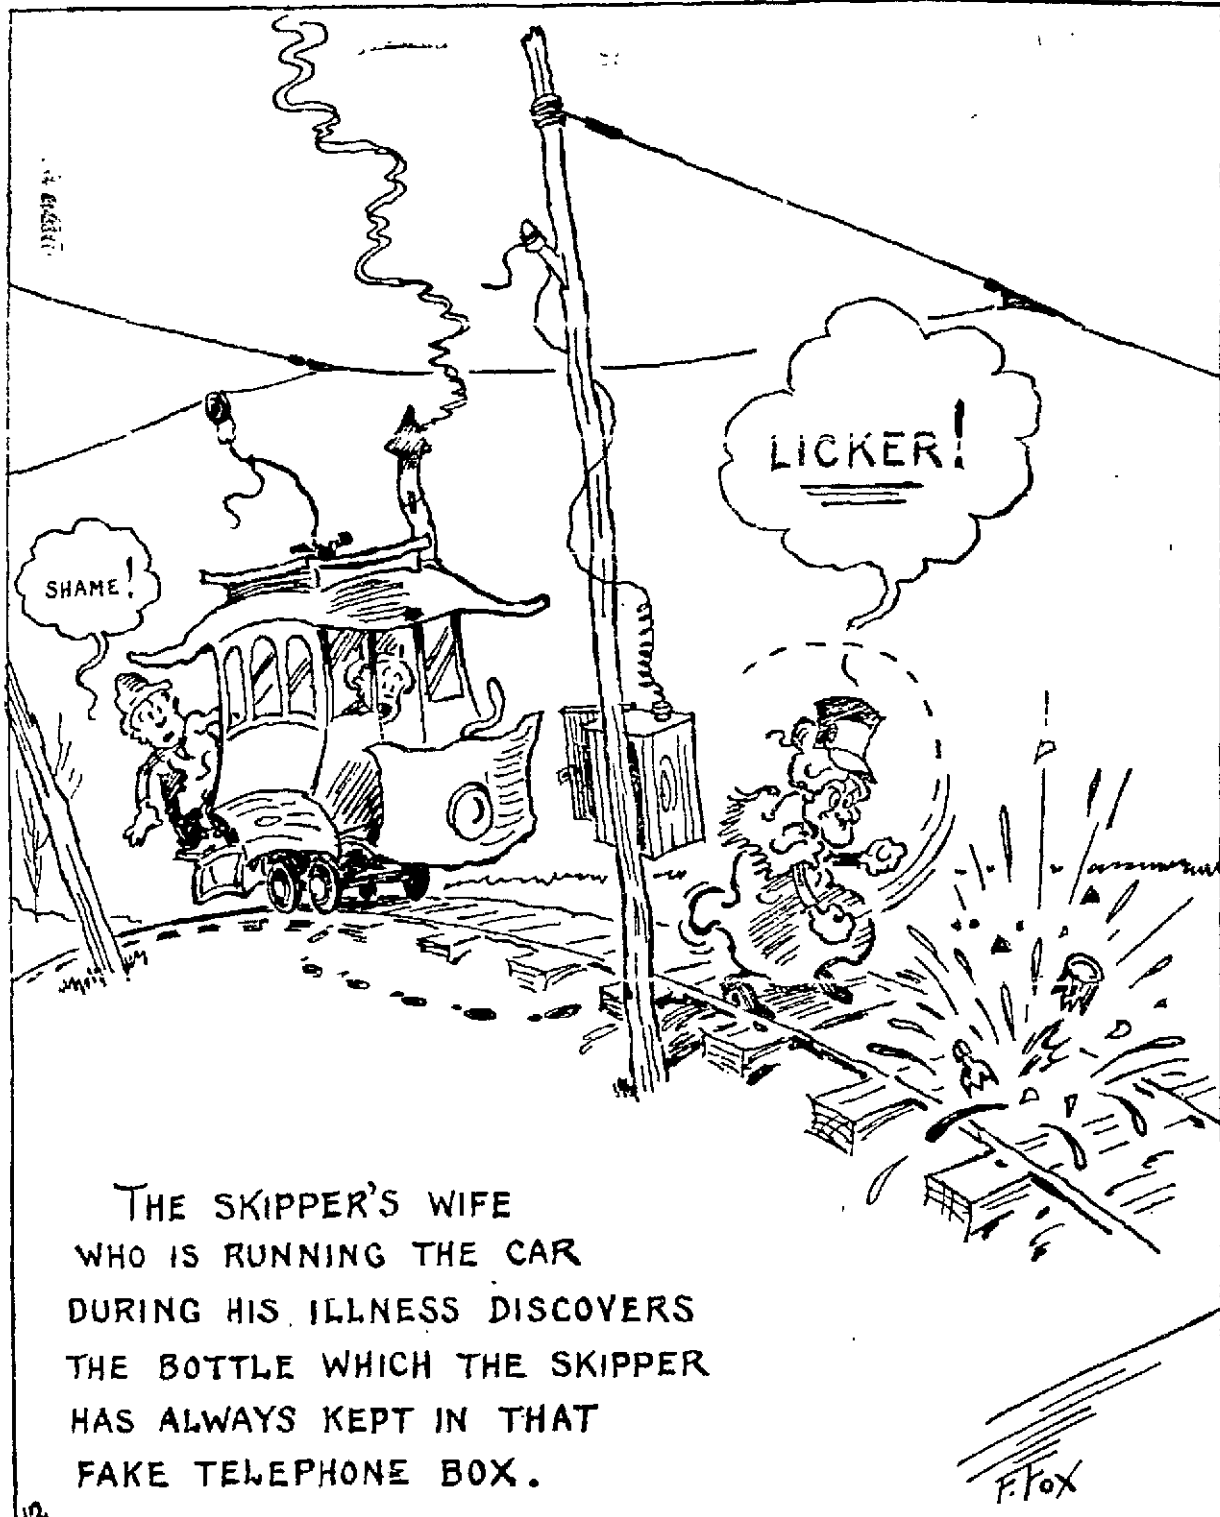

Addresses voicing praise of Governor Stephens and urging the immediate formation of a campaign organization to place Republicans of this county in the governor's office were made by Judge James C. Quinn, Judge Joseph Koford, County Clerk George Gross, Harrison S. Robinson, Supervisor William J. Hamilton, James Oliver, Assistant District Attorney James Koford, Attorney Harry E. Routh, George Randolph, Dr. Samuel H. Buteau, Dr. H. D. Mehrmann, Assemblyman Frank Anderson, Judge John W. Steison, Assemblyman William Satterwhite and E. C. Robinson.

HE'S IN CAMP

"Arrived in camp and having a fine time," writes Germain Vergnes, former prominent Oakland lodge man and leader in the affairs of the local order of Eagles, who recently enlisted in the 37th Engineers, Vergnes is now in a Virginia training camp awaiting orders. Dr. Vergnes is a native of France and will be detailed as an interpreter on his arrival at the war front.

VALUABLE PURSE LEFT UNTOUCHED

If old Diogenes and his lantern were here today they would need go no further than the Hotel Oakland in the quest of an honest man. So says Mrs. Norman de Vaux, wife of the automobile magnate.

Mrs. de Vaux went in to dinner last night, and then missed her purse. After a frantic search it was found, lying on a chair in the lobby, where everyone entering the hotel or leaving it had seen it. It had not been touched.

The worry was caused through the purse containing $600 worth of jewelry and $1000 worth of unregistered Liberty bonds. Mrs. de Vaux says she remembers sitting in the chair, and "must have forgotten the purse." It lay there untouched for more than an hour.

SAVES BOYS ON FLOATING ICE CAKE IN LAKE

CHICAGO, March 12.—Police-man Herbert Dooley is a big hero today, at least in the eyes of Willie Green and Carlos Plescia, whom Dooley rescued when they were about to drift out into Lake Michigan on an ice cake.

The lads were playing on an ice pack off Lincoln Park when a big chunk broke off and they floated out "to sea." Dooley saw them and, grabbing a pole, jumped on the pack, broke off another chunk and poled out to the lads. He pulled them on his chunk and then poled the whole cargo back to safety.

AIRPLANES CLAIM THREE VICTIMS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 12.—Two dead and one injured is the toll here today of one of the most spectacular air crashes at Kelley Field No. 2 since its establishment. Lieutenant Loris L. Mitchell, Cadet Joseph C. Wakefield died later and Cadet J. W. Pemberton is seriously injured.

Mitchell and Wakefield were returning from a cross-country flight and Pemberton, flying alone, appeared from another direction. The machines met when they beheld the collision. They crashed to the ground and the two planes started spinning to earth locked together.

Several hundred cadet flyers had been watching the aviators and were horrified when they beheld the collision. They rushed to the spot where the machines fell and hurriedly extricated the men.

Mitchell was dead when pulled from the wreckage. Wakefield's thighs were fractured and he suffered serious cuts about his body. Pemberton was the least injured, suffering only minor bruises. Pemberton came from Downey, Cal., while Wakefield's home is at Colchester, Ill.

Both Pemberton and Mitchell were said to be experienced flyers. The hazy atmosphere is believed to have confused them.

PEEVED COLONEL

"How many hot dogs does it take to make a turkey?" This query, addressed to a colonel aboard an Atlantic transport by Benjamin F. Kilpitt, former employee of the park department, on his way to France, caused him to spend several days in the ship's brig, according to a letter received today by Henry F. Vogt, secretary of the park board.

It was supposed to be a turkey dinner, according to Kilpitt, but the nearest he came to the bird was two hot dogs. Hence the question to the colonel, who resented the attitude of the enlisted man. Kilpitt further stated that the Americans are doing great things for France in building railways and wharves which will stand after the war as a commercial asset to the country.

TO DISCUSS STEEL

New methods in steel manufacture, brought about through war conditions, will be described in detail before the Manufacturers' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow at their luncheon at the Hotel Oakland. Frederick L. Wright of the United States Steel Products Company will be the speaker of the day. The engineers' club of the chamber will meet tomorrow to discuss the proposed licensing of engineers, when W. N. Fricksted, A. L. Vander Nalven, Frank Barry, Harlan Miller and others will speak.

COAL SACKS ARE NOT TO BE LEFT

Beginning next Monday, any person who buys coal by the sack will have to find a container into which the coal dealer can empty the sacks, according to a ruling made today by Albert E. Schwabacher, federal fuel administrator for California. The announcement promulgating this order says:

"California is one of the few states in the Union in which the greater proportion of the coal is delivered in sacks. In order to reduce the operating expenses of the coal business in this state, in view of the present high cost of sacks the following order has been promulgated, and will go into effect Monday, March 18, 1918:

"Coal dealers are hereby ordered that in all deliveries of coal to consumers the sacks must be taken away and not left with consumers. The only exception to this rule should be in cases where specific exemption is granted by the local fuel member of the United States Fuel Administration Committee."

CANCER ON THE INCREASE

During the last 50 years the death rate from cancer has been going up by leaps and bounds, until the mortality from this cause today is greater by 200 per cent than it was in 1860. One woman in every eight dies of cancer. One man in every eleven. The question is why? Ninety per cent of those cases could be cured if taken in the proper time. It is the neglect that kills.

Dread of Disease Diminishing Through Science's Advances

CANCER CURABLE WITHOUT THE KNIFE

Smallpox held the world in fear 50 years ago. Cholera, yellow fever, diphtheria, rabies and a host of diseases are rapidly becoming controllable or easily conquered. Cancer is the last to fall before science, and the day of the unsuccessful knife is past.

The modern successful treatment now recognized is the application of a strictly non-operative treatment under the supervision of an expert specialist. A specialist treats and cures more cases of cancer, tumors, wens and breast lumps than the average doctor sees in a lifetime.

There is a little book, "CANCER, Its Cause and Cure," that every cancer victim should have. It's free to sufferers, and contains a list of people we have cured. Call or write for it. Examination free.

'PAY ME OR I WILL RESIGN,' SAYS MORF

City Attorney Paul C. Morf has returned from a month's absence in the East to find that his salary for February, amounting to more than $100 had been held up and as the result of a clash with Mayor Davis and members of the council at a conference yesterday in the Mayor's chambers, has threatened to resign his office.

In the meantime the matter of the city attorney's salary is being held in abeyance, Commissioner Edwards of the revenue and finance department having directed that it be left off the payroll when the roll was made up in the city attorney's office prior to the first of the month.

While the controversy is going on, with Morf threatening to resign, Mayor Davis and Commissioner Edwards have suggested that a survey be made of the city attorney's office by the civil service board, along the lines of efficiency.

"If you don't think I am doing $5000 worth of business for the city a year then I am willing that you get someone else; it won't hurt me any," Morf is reported as having told Mayor Davis.

"I don't care what happens, there is no one in the city attorney's office that I have any strings on," the Mayor is said to have replied. "We ought to weed out the whole bunch. It was only recently that you were absent for six weeks. The city paid your salary and $300 worth of expense. You didn't ask me anything about going away this time."

Commissioner Morse remarked that it had been rumored about the street that Morf went East in connection with the Henry-Davis campaign and that the Mayor had paid his fare while the city paid his salary. This was denied by Morf.

Before Morf can collect his salary he will have to have four votes in council authorizing the warrant. While Commissioner Edwards was reluctant on the subject today, it was rumored that he would refuse to sign any claim for the amount.

HARPER IS NAMED

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Nominations today include Oliver C. Harper, Independence, Cal., register of land office.

Hundreds of Tons of Chinese Eggs to Cure Shortage

Three hundred tons of Chinese eggs, shipped in from Shanghai on the Japanese steamer Manila Maru, are to be sent east to relieve the egg shortage. The eggs are being unloaded on the other side of the bay, and will be transferred to Oakland for shipment to Boston. The eggs came in cold storage.

This is the first shipment of Chinese eggs arriving this year. Last year saw scattering arrivals. This is also the largest shipment of Chinese eggs ever sent east.

During the winter the severe cold shut off egg production in the east, and the larger cities were entirely dependent on the west for eggs. This made the shipping demand so great that eggs here rose to as high as 75 cents a dozen, and to even higher in the east. The food administration, as a result of the shortage, forbade the killing of any laying hens for market purposes, this rule being still in effect.

SAYS HOME IS BROKEN; ASKS BALM

Alleging that the affections of his wife, Inez C. Hogarty, have been alienated by the attentions of Joseph W. Towns, head of the claims department of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railway, and by his promises to marry her when she is divorced and to bestow upon her luxuries which her husband cannot afford, Raymond J. Hogarty, 3730 San Juan avenue, a window shade manufacturer, through his attorney, Joseph P. Lacey, has filed suit against Towns for $20,000.

The charges recited in the complaint are that Towns on many occasions called at the home of the Hogartys and induced Mrs. Hogarty to accompany him to cafes and cabarets where they would spend the evenings until far into the night; that on such occasions he introduced her as Miss Burke; that they frequently were seen at hotels together; that Towns bought for her silk dresses, silk stockings and other articles of adornment; that Towns urged her to take apartments away from her husband and promised to maintain her and give her luxuries which her husband could not afford, and that he promised when she was divorced that he would marry her. The complaint alleges that defendant kissed and caressed Mrs. Hogarty and that she addressed to him such salutations as "My baby boy," and "My dear," and "I love you." Alleged damages of $20,000 is asked together with the costs.

The suit follows by a week a suit by Hogarty for divorce from his wife, in which the same allegations are set up as a cause of action. The Hogartys were married in San Rafael in 1913 and have one child 23 months old. They separated in February this year. In the divorce complaint Hogarty asks for custody of the child.

SOLOELLE
The Tone-Coloring Solo Player Piano

Mrs. Clarence Eddy, Concert Contralto, singing, accompanied on the Soloelle by Mr. Clarence Eddy, America's Greatest Organist

Singers and singing teachers of distinction are using Soloelles regularly in their studios—No other player piano could be so utilized because all other player pianos are lacking in the two basic fundamentals of musical expression.

First: Complete and unrestricted individual controls of Melody and Accompaniment.

Second: Control of Tone-Color—the charm and essence of musical expression.

The Soloelle is not merely an improvement on the player piano—it is an entirely new type of musical instrument—it starts where all other player pianos leave off and overcomes the deficiencies which mar their music.

The Soloelle is the only player piano which will respond to your every whim—your every mood. Let us prove this to you on any of the following instruments:

Knabe Soloelle, Kohler & Chase Soloelle, Gabler Soloelle, Shoninger Soloelle, Andrew Kohler Soloelle, Fischer Soloelle, Hobart M. Cable Soloelle $575 to $1250.

Terms if desired. Other instruments in exchange.

If not convenient for you to visit our showrooms during the business hours, you may have a Soloelle demonstration any evening by appointment.
